BERLIN RECEIVES U. S. PROTEST

TORPEDO BOAT SINKS BIG BRITISH WARSHIP

By HERBERT TEMPLE.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, May 13.—The British battleship Goliath was torpedoed and sunk by Turkish destroyers in the Dardanelles last night, with the loss of more than 500 members of her crew, it was announced by First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill in the House of Commons today.

The Goliath was attacked and sunk while protecting the flank of the French troops in their land operations.

Dispatches to the Admiralty from Vice-Admiral Michael de Robeck, commander of the British fleet in the Dardanelles sphere of operations, say that twenty officers and 160 men of the Goliath's crew had been saved. The battleship normally carried a complement of 750 men.

In the same operations in which the Goliath was lost the British submarine E-14 entered the Sea of Marmora sank two Turkish gunboats and a large transport.

The Goliath, a sister ship of the Canopus, Ocean, Glory, Albion and Vengeance, was a vessel of 12,950 tons and was commanded by Captain Thomas T. Shelford.

The Goliath's length at the water line was 400 feet, and her beam was 74 feet. She carried four 12-inch guns, twelve 6-inch guns, ten 12-pounders and a smaller armament, in addition to four submerged torpedo tubes. Her speed was eighteen knots.

The Goliath was commissioned at Sheerness on April 22, 1909. Her destruction by a torpedo recalls Turkish claims that other battleships had been torpedoed during Dardanelles operations, whereas information from non-Turkish sources had listed them as the victims of the Krupp guns in the Turkish forts.

Warships of the Anglo-French fleet have again bombarded the Turkish forts on both sides of the Dardanelles Narrows, says a Tenedos dispatch to the Times. French troops that were withdrawn from the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles are being landed on the Gallipoli peninsula to reinforce the British.

Dispatches state that the forts in the straits gradually are being overcome, and there are persistent reports that the entire stretch of peninsula from Cape Helles to Kilid Bahr now is in the allies' hands.

WILL ATTACK CONSTANTINOPLE BY LAND FROM THE NORTH

By International News Service.

SALONIKA, May 13.—Adrianople, the chief city in European Turkey, is threatened by combined operations of a British army landed near Enos on the Aegean coast and a Russian army being landed at Iniada on the Black Sea coast.

Most of the Russian warships that bombarded the Turkish forts on the Bosphorus withdrew to Iniada to cover the debarkation of the Russian troops. Iniada is seventy-five miles from Adrianople.

Casualties among German army officers directing the operations of the Turks along the Dardanelles have been very heavy, it is stated in information received today from the Turkish capital via Dedeagatch.

Twenty thousand wounded Turks and Germans were removed from the Gallipoli peninsula during the two weeks ending May 7. Typhus has broken out in the Turkish camps and hospitals and hundreds of new cases are reported daily, it is reported. Turkish headquarters are reported to have been removed to Rodosto.

Mercury Goes High to Prepare for Straw Hats

The temperature took a little running start to prepare for the official opening of the straw hat season on Saturday by climbing to 72 degrees at 10 o'clock, with likelihood of a higher mark before the advent of "cooler weather" promised by the forecaster. At 6 o'clock today the mercury was at 58.

"Fair" weather, with the "cooler" qualification in the official forecast, the weather man declares, is intended to ease us into Summer conditions gradually. It sure seems time to put the derbies and felt "boys" in moth balls and invest in a straw.

Fleet to Manoeuvre in Narragansett Bay

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The report that the Atlantic fleet might cruise along the east coast of South America this Summer as a substitute for its Pacific cruise, which is to be abandoned, were discredited in Navy Department circles today. The fleet will have the usual Summer manoeuvres in Narragansett Bay and will remain in American waters throughout the season.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels continued today to deny that the passage of the fleet through the Panama Canal had been given up.

RIOTS AGAINST GERMANS IN ALL GREAT BRITAIN

By International News Service.

LONDON, May 13.—Serious anti-German demonstrations in the nature of mob violence and the destruction of German property are reported from various sections of the United Kingdom today.

In the British Isles the sinking of the Lusitania has fanned the resentment of the people into a blaze of wrath. The police and military authorities have been defied and millions of dollars' worth of property owned by Germans has been destroyed.

Dispatches today told of the partial destruction of the city of Johannesburg, South Africa, by fire set by anti-German mobs. Between fifty and sixty buildings were destroyed. A great German-owned distillery there was pillaged and fired, with a resulting damage of $25,000.

Residences of many of the Johannesburg Germans were burned and the German club was attacked and given to the flames. A declaration of martial law there is considered likely.

Riots against the German population have taken place also in Melbourne, Australia, according to today's cables. Australian workmen are refusing to work beside German employes and a great strike is threatened.

CALL OUT TROOPS.

In London and other English cities mobs continued their anti-German warfare today. At some places troops were called out. Scotland Yard called up 3,000 war constables to preserve order in the East End of London.

General Sir Francis Lloyd, commanding the military district of London, was warned by the Home Office to keep his troops under arms as their service might be needed at any moment. Hundreds of men and women—the ringleaders of mobs—were arrested.

Rioters wrecked German saloons and stores. British men and women, furiously shouting "remember the Lusitania," battered their way into the homes of German citizens, smashing furniture and assaulting the owners.

Persons bearing Teutonic names or having a Teutonic cast of countenance were in grave personal danger if they appeared upon the streets. In Black Friars the violence of the mob assumed the proportions of wild frenzy.

PROMISE RESISTANCE.

Unless the government immediately decides to intern all Germans and Austrians (now under consideration) bloody fighting may follow here, as some Germans have given notice that they will arm themselves for self-protection. It is estimated that there are about 40,000 Germans and Austrians in the United Kingdom still at liberty. Of these about 20,000 reside in London.

In Liverpool about 250 German shops and homes were wrecked. At Cannington, Manchester, Woolwich, Southend and other places German-owned property was destroyed and Germans attacked and badly beaten. At Southend troops had to be called out.

Altogether it is estimated that $2,000,000 worth of German property has been destroyed since the last Saturday.

FRENCH TAKE CARENCY IN BIG ARRAS DRIVE

BY FRANKLIN P. MERRICK,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, May 13.—"A brilliant success has been achieved north of Arras," says an official statement issued by the French War Office today.

After a furious conflict in which the Germans fought gallantly and lost heavily, the French took complete possession of Carency. The communique in full follows:

"We have achieved a brilliant success north of Arras. On Wednesday night at Notre Dame de Lorette we became masters of the field fort and the chapel. In the great quadrangle of trenches and earthworks to the south of the chapel we were subjected to a most violent counter attack.

A sanguinary conflict that lasted throughout the night followed in this quadrangle. In the morning we remained complete masters of the situation, having inflicted upon the enemy very heavy losses.

During the same night we also took by storm the whole of the village of Carency and the wood to the north (Hill No. 125). The garrison that held the village and the wood consisted of a battalion of the One Hundred and Ninth Regiment of Infantry and a battalion of the One Hundred and Thirty-six Regiment, a battalion of Bavarian chasseurs and six companies of pioneers, with 300 men to each company.

These troops had erected at Carency and in the wood at the Hill of No. 125 a formidable redoubt. Although very much reduced in numbers by losses inflicted in the engagements of the preceding days, the Germans fought desperately throughout the night against our attacks, but their block-house and other works were demolished.

German resistance was finally broken and at daybreak we were complete masters of the position. Our troops killed hundreds of Germans with the bayonet and took 1,500 prisoners, of whom thirty were officers, among them being a colonel and the commander of a battalion of chasseurs.

MELBOURNE, May 13.—Australian Minister of Defence Pearce announced today that a contingent of artillery would be sent to Europe to reinforce the allies.

Governor Vetoes Transportation of Liquor Bill

Governor Walsh sent to the Legislature today his veto of the liquor transportation bill.

In his message, the Governor, while expressing his sympathy with the desire of no-license communities to control the distribution of intoxicating liquors within there own limits, declares that the bill is dangerous, ambiguous and does not obtain the conditions which were sought by its no-license proponents.

Governor Walsh disapproves the bill because it provides an arbitrary penalty of fine or imprisonment and revokes the license of any liquor dealer who transports liquor into a no-license territory. The bill is so ambiguous, the Governor declares, that its drastic penalties might properly be construed as affecting a licensee who transported liquor through one no-license town, although the shipments was consigned properly to a license community.

Governor Walsh also calls attention in his veto message to the fact that the defects in the bill were recognized by the no-license advocates after the bill had passed the Legislature and that their efforts to recall the bill and couch it in proper and less dangerous terms were frustrated in the Senate.

WILSON'S NOTE SENT; WORDING IS STRONG

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 13. — President Wilson's note to Germany on the Lusitania horror and other attacks upon American life and property on the high seas was coded today and the first sections of it already have been transmitted to the German Foreign Office in Berlin.

The note is about 2,000 words in length and the sending of it, it was said, probably would not be completed before 6 p. m.

The note, it is said, is as forceful as it is possible to make it without actually furnishing justification for a declaration of war by Germany.

President Wilson in his message notifies Germany that his previous warning that he would hold the German government to a "strict accountability" for its destruction of American life and property still is the policy of the United States.

One fact definitely ascertained about the note today is:

The United States does not make any demand for financial reparation for the loss of American lives on the Lusitania. No specific kind of reparation is asked for.

TO SATISFY SELF RESPECT OF UNITED STATES.

In drafting the note the President had three thoughts in mind—to satisfy the self-respect of the United States, to arouse Germany to a realization of her offence against the rights of neutrals and finally to stop short of any statements which reasonably could be regarded by Germany as a justification for declaring war.

The President and his advisers, in determining upon the character of the note, were fully conscious of the eventualities which might follow. These were weighed with the greatest care and the determination was reached that the United States owed it not only to herself but to humanity to accept the risk.

WILSON READY TO ACT IF DEMANDS ARE REFUSED

The final touches were put upon the note by the President shortly after midnight. He now feels that his duty is done.

A London cablegram received today quotes a Copenhagen report that Admiral von Tirpitz, German Minister of Marine, has resigned as the result of a disagreement with other members of the German government over the sinking of the Lusitania.

REPORT GERMANY WILL REFUSE DEMANDS.

President Wilson's demands on Germany will be refused, according to information secured by the correspondent of a New York newspaper in an interview with a member of the German Embassy here.

According to this source of information, Germany will continue to destroy the ships of belligerents without warning, so that, if Americans persist in traveling under the British, French or Russian flags, they may be killed like those on the Lusitania. Germany regrets that Americans have been killed, but it cannot accept the terms of the Washington government, it is stated.

Another report says:

"It is understood here, this morning, that Germany has let it be known that she will refuse to guarantee safety to American citizens or ships, as President Wilson demands.

"Diplomats express the opinion that Germany now seeks war with the United States."

Secretary of the Navy Daniels called upon the President today to congratulate him upon the note and incidentally to discuss certain features of it.

It was announced after Secretary Daniels had seen the President that the plans for the review of the fleet in New York were unchanged.

The President will leave Washington on the Mayflower Saturday and will return to the city next Wednesday or Thursday. The Mayflower will go without convoy according to the present plan. President Wilson will make one address on his visit to New York. He will speak at Mayor Mitchel's luncheon in the Hotel Biltmore Tuesday. It is not likely, however, that he will discuss the international situation.

PRINCIPAL POINTS IN UNITED STATES NOTE SUMMARIZED

The principal points in the United States' note to Germany, growing out of the Lusitania horror, are summarized as follows:

1. The United States government calls attention to the various incidents in the war zone proclaimed by Germany around the British Isles; the sinking of the British liner Falaba, with the loss of Leon C. Thresher, an American; the attack by German airmen on the American steamer Cushing; the torpedoing without warning of the American steamer Gulflight, flying the Stars and Stripes, and, finally, the torpedoing without warning of the Lusitania, with its loss of more than 1,000 lives of non-combatants, among them more than 100 Americans.

2. These acts are declared to be indefensible under international law. The United States points out that it never admitted Germany's right to do them and warned the imperial government that it would be held to a "strict accountability" for attacks on American vessels or lives. A strict accounting, therefore, is now asked from Germany.

3. The usual financial reparation will be sought, although Germany is in effect reminded that no reparation can restore the lives of those sacrificed in the sinking of the Lusitania and other ships.

4. Expressions of regret may comply with the legal precedents, but they are valueless unless accompanied by a cessation of the practices endangering lives of non-combatants.

5. The right of neutrals to travel any point of the high seas on neutral or belligerent merchantmen is asserted.

6. In the name of humanity and international law the United States demands a guarantee that these rights will be respected and that there be no repetition of attacks on merchantmen carrying non-combatants.

7. The giving of warnings to the American public without officially communicating them to the United States government is commented on in connection with the German embassy's printed advertisement before the sailing of the Lusitania, but irrespective of the failure to advise the American government of Germany's purpose, the point is made that notice of an intention to do an unlawful act neither justified nor legalized it.

8. The suggestion is conveyed that the German government, of course, could not have intended to destroy innocent lives, and that consequently the German submarine commanders must have misunderstood their instructions. The American government indicates its hope that this will be found to be true, and a cessation of the unlawful practices thereby will result.

9. In conclusion Germany's attention is called to the earnestness of the government and people of the United States in this situation. It is made plain that the United States will leave nothing undone either in diplomatic representation or other action to obtain a compliance by Germany to the request made.

AMERICANS IN LONDON HIT AT WILSON SPEECH

By International News Service.

LONDON, May 13.—In one of London's great music halls two comedians became engaged in a violent stage quarrel. They were about to attack each fiercely, when one suddenly turned from his antagonist, walked away, and exclaimed:

"I'm too proud to fight."

The audience laughed heartily.

It is doubtful, in the public mind here, if ever there has been a phrase from a public man so inept. It has taken a firm hold here.

"Kind answer turneth away wrath, I know, but a smack on the nose has its uses," was the comment of Henry W. Thornton, general manager of the Great Eastern Railway.

FAVORS ACTION.

"I refuse to believe that the reported speech of President Wilson represents his considered judgment on the situation created by the crime against the Lusitania," said Newton Crane, an American lawyer. "Americans will be delighted to have Dr. Dernburg deported under the American alien immigration act and sent out of the country by the next east-bound Cunarder."

"It seems high time for President Wilson to come down from the clouds and put his foot on earth and meet the conditions which actually exist," remarked Alfred R. Urion, general counsel in England for Armour and Company.

"I am very much disappointed," said Henry E. Turner, managing director of the Vacuum Oil Company, "at the attitude taken by the President in his Philadelphia speech. It is surely a confession of very great weakness if the President does not wish to act regarding the loss of so many human lives."

"I am very strongly in favor of action at Washington that will at least break off diplomatic relations with a country like Germany," said George W. McKinley, secretary of the American Luncheon Club. "I think we ought to go to war."

The only London papers to comment editorially on the President's Philadelphia speech, assuming, before the receipt of his disavowal, that he had the Lusitania case and the consequent policy of the United States in mind, are the Standard and the Daily Express.

PRESS COMMENT.

"It would be unjust as well as unmannerly," says the Standard, "to scoff at President Wilson's 'Too proud to fight' speech. It is America's affair and hers only what steps she cares to take to impress on Germany the enormity of her offence in taking over 100 American lives. Englishmen may think it just as useful to ask the wolf why he made the ewe bleat for the lamb as to expostulate with the German government, but after all it is no business of ours.

"We all know that it is not want of courage that makes the American people, despite their intense resentment, desirous to escape a ridiculous and unnecessary participation in the war. Whatever else may be said of Mr. Wilson, he has shown moral courage of the highest order."

3 Cunarders to Sail on Schedule

RUSSIANS PLAN TO EXACT REVENGE

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY.

Special Correspondent International News Service.

PETROGRAD, May 13.—The Russian battle front in Galicia is not broken, and after retiring for strategic reasons the Russians are now ready for an offensive by which they "expect to exact hearty revenge upon the Germans," says a statement issued by the Russian War Office today. This statement, which treats of the great recent operations in Galicia, follows:

"In the fighting between the Vistula and the Carpathians, May 8 and 9, the Germans planned to break our front by the lightning rapidity of the blow directed at the neighborhood of Krosno by seven divisions of the flower of the German army after a heavy artillery preparation.

"At the end of a demonstration six more divisions appeared on this front, where our army was tremendously outnumbered.

"On a general front of forty miles the enemy gathered three-quarters of the Austrian army, one-ninth of the German army, the First Reserve, half the contingents of the Second Reserve, besides eight divisions from the Serbian front, several new Austrian divisions, as well as eight new divisions and nine cavalry divisions from the western front.

"Only one of our armies participated in the first attack.

"The Germans gained no tactical success. Our reserves, by a flank blow, enabled our army to rearrange a line of advantageous positions eliminating all fear of final retreat.

"Our army has received strong reinforcements and is ready to exact hearty revenge. Our falling back carried out methodically. The enemy's loss was heavy.

"When our troops occupied the mountainous sector which the enemy holds today the enemy's official communications declared these positions were of no importance."

HEAR GERMANS PLAN NEW SEA AND AIR RAIDS

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Confidential reports received in Washington from American observers in Europe have satisfied some of the leading military authorities here that Germany will rely to a great extent hereafter upon her submarines and air machines.

These reports indicate that the German government is turning out submarines and air machines at a rate that never has been equalled.

Army officers appear to be quite satisfied that the German aviators are preparing to attack the British navy with a fleet of several hundred air machines, in the hope that some of them may succeed in vitally damaging Great Britain's first line of defence.

Naval officers believe Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz is preparing a similar attack under the water. They admit such attacks present tremendous difficulties, but they appear to be satisfied that the German Admiralty hopes to overcome all obstacles.

American navy observers have reported to Washington that the German line appears to be standing like a wall, and there is no reason to believe that the allied forces will be able to take the fighting into Germany in the near future.

Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

QUEENSTOWN, May 13.—The number of victims of the German submarine which sank the Lusitania still missing today was placed at between [illegible] and [illegible].

As a result of widespread protests officials of the Admiralty and the Cunard line are making more vigorous search for bodies now than at any time since the great liner was sent to the bottom and a squadron of tugs and tenders today patrolled the coast from Waterford to Fastnet Rock. The weather was unfavorable to the search, being rainy and foggy.

Patrol boats have been dispatched to a point off South Glandore, where a fishing boat reported having seen about 100 bodies floating in the water. United States Consul Wesley Frost has taken charge of the disposition of the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Plamondon and announced today that he would ship them to Chicago. Two more bodies have been picked up from a Lusitania liferaft near Skull and will be brought here for possible identification.

Among the missing are Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Elbert Hubbard, Charles Klein, Justus M. Forman, and more than 100 other Americans. The report that Lindon Bates, Jr., had been rescued was discovered to be unfounded.

IN WATER THREE HOURS

After being in the water for three hours Mrs. Albert Neville of Toronto, who was a passenger on the Lusitania, was picked up by a torpedo boat, according to word from Cork today. She lost her husband, two daughters and son in the disaster. She tried to save her son and supported him until she was so exhausted that she had to loosen her hold on him.

Inefficiency was never more pitifully evidenced than when the shed behind the Cunard offices was partly emptied for the reception of sixteen new bodies, brought in by the Dutch tug Poolzee.

Five other bodies which had been transferred there from other mortuaries were ranged on the floor along the far wall of the room. Among these was the body of Charles Frohman, coatless, collarless and in state indescribable after four days.

These five bodies, a representative of the American Consulate was assured, were of Americans and were to be sent to the United States.

The reason they had not been encoffined, he said, was a lack of coffins.

NO COFFIN FOR FROHMAN.

I personally examined the bodies and discovered one was Frohman's. At the same moment Webb Ware returned from a hunt along the coast for the body of Alfred G. Vanderbilt. I asked him what he thought of the delay in putting Frohman's body in a lead coffin. By way of response he wrote the following telegram:

Dion Boucicault, or W. J. Matthews, Duke of York's Theatre, London:—Surely steps should be immediately taken to encoffin Charles Frohman. Nobody appears to care here. Shall I give orders on your behalf? This is extremely urgent.

Webb Ware.

As a result the body of Frohman was encoffined and prepared for shipment.

GROWING CHAOS.

The photographer who made pictures of the unidentified dead admitted he "made a mistake" in photographing the bodies lying prone instead of upright, with the result that the most visible thing is the soles of their shoes and the faces are out of focus. Agonized relatives arriving today have thus almost impossible pictures to see and the knowledge that their loved ones may already be buried has driven many of them wild.

The Admiralty, the Cunard officials and the American Consulate alike seem to have broken down absolutely under the strain.

Two men have stood out emphatically in the gradually growing chaos. These are Lindell Bates and F. J. Gauntlett. Mr. Bates got the coast patrolled from Roberts Point to the Kinsale district line, a distance of fifty miles, and then proceeded to [illegible] where he arranged a similar patrol of thirty miles from Kinsale to Baltimore. This patrol will be continued for three days.

The arrival of the Dutch tug Poolzee with the sixteen additional bodies caused Queenstown to bend beneath greater grief than the first appearance of the submarine's victims.

BABIES' BODIES TAKEN ASHORE.

We all have stood a great deal during the past four days, but when the stevedores began carrying the bodies of babies ashore carrying them awkwardly in their arms, sea water dripping from the little white woolen jackets and out of the little ankle ties even the undertakers' assistants [illegible] soldering the lead coffins in the yard forgot their tasks and stood unashamed of the tears streaming down their faces.

Captain John A. Beattie, a chaplain in a Canadian regiment, which is fighting for England in France, whose wife and son were lost on the Lusitania, declared today that he would shed the cloth of the clergy and go into the trenches to fight the Germans.

SEEKS VENGEANCE.

"I was a cowboy for twenty-five years on the plains of Canada and I can shoot the buttons off a man's coat at one hundred yards," said Captain Beattie. "When I came to England I had no intention of using my marksmanship against the enemy, but now with my revolver I will consider it my duty to kill as many Germans as they killed in the sinking of the Lusitania. I only wish I was of different nationality so that I could go to Germany and there take out my satisfaction on the Kaiser in person. It was nothing but wholesale murder of women and babies. I count myself no less a Christian or churchman for thinking as I do."

As the result of reports from fishing boat that many bodies of Lusitania victims have been sighted off the southwest coast within the past twenty-four hours, belief was expressed at the United States consulate today that the number of missing will be reduced to between 700 and 800 within the next thirty-six hours.

Consul Wesley Frost has wired to the American embassy at London for description of all the missing Americans.

Land Too Proud to Fight Should Lie Down and Not Whine, Says Bonaparte

By CHARLES J. BONAPARTE,
Attorney General under President Roosevelt.

To the Editor of the Boston AMERICAN:

A neutral nation has but one way to assure the rights of its citizens as fixed by settled international usage from infringement by belligerent nations. That way is to show—and so show as to make the belligerents understand—it will fight for its rights and those of its citizens if those rights are persistently violated.

If the neutral nation is too cowardly, or too selfish, or too sordid in its aims or, as the President puts it, "too proud to fight," no matter what the provocation, it had better lie down "proudly" and let whoever cares to do so trample on it without grumbling or whining.

CHILI NOW DEMANDS GERMAN APOLOGY

LONDON, May 13.—Germany has blundered into a situation which may provoke in South America a crisis almost as acute, though different in kind, as that caused in the United States by the sinking of the Lusitania.

Diplomatic secrecy is being strictly maintained pending the exchange of communications but it is learned on excellent authority that these latter have taken such a tone that the severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries concerned is considered highly probable.

The incident began with Chili's acceptance of the British apology for the violation of her neutrality by the sinking of the Dresden in [illegible] waters. [illegible] conveyed its dissatisfaction to Santiago in terms which the Chilian government considered insulting and constituting an unwarrantable interference with the sovereign rights of the country.

Chili responded by what was practically an ultimatum to the effect that Germany must withdraw her expressions and apologize for her flagrant breach of international procedure, or Chili would take such action as best appealed to her in the circumstances.

There is ground for believing that Germany has received an allowance of time in which to decide upon the course she will pursue.

Transylvania Carries Arms, Berlin Charges

Boston American and London Daily Telegraph Exclusive Cable Service.

ROTTERDAM, May 13.—The semi-official Berlin News Agency has issued the following statement:

> The steamship Transylvania, which on Saturday left New York, belongs to the category which carry contraband and, therefore, is liable to attack by German submarines.
>
> In the paper Army and Navy of February 6 appeared the statement that when the Transylvania left New York on January 23 for Liverpool her cargo included two forty-centimeter cannon, delivered by the Bethlehem Steel Company, carried on the foredeck. Each piece is sixteen meters long and weighed seventy-five tons. Other large fittings for warships were also on deck, while in the holds were stowed away many cases containing parts of cannon and other armament. These things were consigned to Harland & Wolf.

TRANSYLVANIA IS NEARING WAR ZONE

NEW YORK, May 13.—The liner Transylvania, with many Americans aboard and now under charter to the Cunard line, is expected to be well within the danger zone tomorrow, and increasing anxiety is felt for her.

It is rumored here that the Transylvania has been chosen by the German admiralty as the next target for the submarines now warring on English shipping.

The fear is growing here that the flotilla of submarines which sank the Lusitania may again throw out its patrol line across the course of the Transylvania.

Such an ambush, it is felt here, would be practically impossible to evade unless the British admiralty sends a strong escort of fast gunboats.

VANDERBILT BOYS MAY DIVIDE MONEY

NEW YORK, May 13.—The death of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt in the Lusitania catastrophe being definitely established, interest today centres around the disposition the multimillionaire may have made of his fortune, estimated at more than $100,000,000.

Some believe the wealth will be evenly divided among William H. Vanderbilt, the eldest son, and the two others, by Vanderbilt's second wife.

Others believe that Alfred Gwynne may have followed the precedent of his father and left the bulk to the second son. In Alfred Gwynne's case it was done by his father as an alternative to making the eldest son, Cornelius, heir to the greatest part of the fortune because of the latter's marriage.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's three sons are William H., by the first wife, who was Miss Elsie French; Alfred Gwynne, 2d, born September 2, 1912, and George, born September 24, 1914, both by his second wife, who was Mrs. Smith Hollis McKim. The Vanderbilt fortune, which these three children are heirs to, consists mostly of New York Central Railroad securities.

Newport waits the contents of the Vanderbilt will, which must be offered for probate in New York, where he was a citizen. There can be no question on this subject, as last April, while his steam yacht Wayfarer was at Newport he was asked why he did not hail from Newport instead of from New York. His reply was: "I am a citizen of New York."

As Mr. Vanderbilt was most careful and thorough in all his affairs, there is no doubt he made a careful will.

500 JOIN NAVY LEAGUE IN DAY

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Officers of the National Security League announce that the movement for national defence has made greater progress in the five days since the Lusitania was blown up than in the previous three months, since this work was inaugurated under the leadership of S. Stanwood Menken, Joseph H. Choate and Alton B. Parker.

Men and women from all walks of life have responded to the calls for volunteer workers to spread the doctrine of "Preparedness" and contributions to carry on the work have poured into the national headquarters. Among the contributions received yesterday were: Cornelius Vanderbilt, $250; Nicholas F. Brady, $1,000; George W. Perkins, $500; Mortimer L. Schiff, $250; Arthur Curtis James, $250; William P. Clyde, $250; W. L. Harkness, $250; John B. Lounger, $200; J. G. White, $125; Sidney C. Borg, $100; W. H. Childs, $100; Herbert L. Satterlee, $25; Henry P. Sloan, $25; Gordon Knox Ball, $25; J. Couper Lord, $25.

Navy League officials are pleased at the universal approval which the action of their executive committee in petitioning the President to call a special session of Congress to authorize the issuance of $500,000,000 worth of bonds for national defence, has been met. All day telegrams of approval came in, and men widely known in business and social affairs have been dropping in to voice their approval.

The first day's work in connection with the membership campaign has also been satisfactory. In the neighborhood of 500 signatures were turned in during the day.

This evening the annual Navy League banquet and ball will be held. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Admiral Fletcher and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt will be among the speakers.

Says 'Kaiser Flower' May Cause Trouble

Declaring the bachelor button, known as the "Kaiser Flower," signifies loyalty to the German Emperor and may cause trouble if it is displayed here, a naturalized American of German birth called at police headquarters and asked that steps be taken to prevent the wearing of the flower. He asserted that since the sinking of the Lusitania the flower has appeared in increasing numbers on Boston streets.

Remove German Menace, Japs Say

TOKIO, May 13.—The Japanese press bitterly arraigns Germany for the sinking of the Lusitania. The Asahi Shimbun characterizes it as a "massacre of innocents" certain to excite the "righteous indignation" of Americans. Other papers declare the time has come to "remove forever the German menace."

There are five good reasons why you should give your preference to Kirschbaum Clothes.

Any one of these reasons will appeal to your judgment: collectively they afford the absolute assurance of satisfaction which only a maker who is sure of his product would dare to promise.

1. Kirschbaum Clothes are pure wool—every fibre chemically tested.
2. Every inch of cloth is London shrunk by cold-water process—a guarantee of permanent shapeliness.
3. Silk thread is used where strain is greatest.
4. Hand-tailoring at every point where hand-work is essential to best results.
5. Kirschbaum styles conform with the latest demands of current fashion.

"Look for the Guarantee and Price Ticket on the Sleeve."

A call from you will be highly appreciated and the Spring models best suited to your own personality will be shown you.

'BIG ARMY NEEDED FOR U.S. DEFENCES'

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES

WASHINGTON, May 13.—"The situation at the Dardanelles should bring forcibly to the attention of the people of this country the fact that an adequate mobile army must be part of our coast defence," said General John A. Johnston, president of the Army League, today.

"Just at present Turkey is depending upon its field artillery, cavalry and infantry to keep the Dardanelles closed. Even if the fortifications and mines of the Dardanelles should continue to resist the fleet of the allies the capture of Constantinople could not be prevented.

"In fact, if the mobile army of Turkey is driven from the field, the fortifications will be captured and the fleet can sail through the Dardanelles and Constantinople will be at the mercy of the guns of the British and French ships.

BUILD UP U. S. DEFENCES.

"There is no harbor in the United States where the fortifications can be as great a factor in defending a city as the fortifications of the Dardanelles. I think our permanent fortifications should be strengthened and armed with large and powerful guns. However, I wish to emphasize the fact that harbor defences, which we inaccurately style coast defences, are practically useless unless we have an effective and adequate mobile army not only to support them, but to protect the intermediate coast line.

"It ought to be apparent to any one who gives this subject serious consideration that an enemy could land a large army at almost any intermediate point along our extensive coast line and not only destroy our large cities, but capture our fortifications.

BIG ARMY LACKING.

"That we have a sufficient force to man our harbor fortifications and practically no mobile army to support them, nor for rapid movement to threaten intermediate points, is recognized in the annual report of the Secretary of War and his instructions to the War College to furnish him with a report on the entire question of coast defences.

"If Turkey had followed our present policy of not maintaining a mobile army to protect the rear of the Dardanelles fortifications, the allies would now be in Constantinople. It is important to maintain a mobile army which can be thrown into the field as it is to fortify its harbor.

"The same holds true of Boston, Norfolk, Charleston, Mobile, New Orleans, San Francisco and all the large coast cities. As far as that is concerned, the entire country would be at the mercy of the enemy if we do not develop an efficient mobile army which can be mobilized with the utmost promptness.

EFFICIENCY NEEDED.

"The regular army component of our mobile army, as the successful landing of the allies' army in the Dardanelles regions clearly demonstrates, should and must be made capable of efficient action with the utmost promptness immediately on the first call for defences.

"For this fact proves there will be a great clamor and demand along the whole of our threatened continental borders, which will disperse and weaken and so prevent and embarrass the absolutely necessary concentration and strength of effort at the real point or points of attack, while the States' organized militia and the national volunteers are being called into the service, mobilized, expanded, armed, ammunitioned, equipped, supplied and more fully instructed."

READ LOVE NOTE IN EMERY CASE

Portions of a letter written by Judge Samuel W. Emery to the woman who later became Mrs. Emery No. 2, and which was couched in affectionate terms and ended with "Kisses for dear wife," were read in court today in the progress of the trial of the contest on Judge Emery's will.

The letter, written shortly before Judge Emery's second marriage and to the woman he later married, began:

"My Beloved, Darling, Sweet, Good Wife," and one passage read: "Your scenery is magnificent and sublime. It will take a thousand years to efface it." It was signed "Your loving and devoted husband," and below were several crosses and the words, "Kisses for dear wife."

In opposing the admission of letters, former Attorney-General Herbert Parker, who appears for Mrs. Emery No. 2, said:

"We admit the letters are endearing and ardent. But we have no desire to parade them in open court, and we feel they are not material."

J. P. Richardson, counsel for the contestants, insisted, and Judge White allowed a part of one letter to be read.

When the trial of the case was resumed before Judge White, Samuel W. Emery, son of Judge Emery, took the stand for cross-examination.

Judge Emery's first wife and three children, Samuel, Margaret and Mabel, are contesting his will. They were in court, as were also his second wife, Mrs. Mary E. H. Emery, and her sister, Mrs. Florence Smith.

The official records of Judge Emery's divorce from his first wife were introduced. She secured the divorce on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. He had asked a divorce charging "tormenting language," "a bad tongue," "cruel assault," and that she "circulated false and scandalous reports as to my association with"—the woman who later became Mrs. Emery No. 2.

Judge Emery, it was submitted, paid $5,325 in alimony to his first wife.

Boston Schooner Ashore in Bahamas

Word came to Boston today that the Boston three-masted schooner Margaret M. Ford, Captain Webster, is ashore on Riding Rocks in the Bahamas and will be a total loss. The message came from Nassau, and though no mention was made of the crew, it is supposed all were saved. The schooner sailed from Gulfport, Mississippi, April 13, with a cargo of lumber for Genoa.

Winchester Jitney Bus Plan Fails

George R. Hall's petition for permission to operate a jitney bus line between Winchester and Arlington was given "leave to withdraw" by the Winchester Selectmen today. They decided that Hall, who lives in Malden, could not furnish sufficient surety to protect passengers.

Ascension Day Services.

Ascension Day services were held in Trinity Church today with a sermon by Rev. Alexander Mann. The Holy Communion service was read in Italian at the Old North Church, Salem street. Dean Rousmaniere made the address at St. Paul's Cathedral.

MRS. SADIE MARKS, witness in fur coat case.

BOTH SIDES LOSE IN FUR COAT CASE

Judge Brackett in the Municipal Court today returned a verdict of "You both lose" in the suit and counter-suit involving Mrs. Mildred Goldstein and Morris Blackstone.

Mrs. Goldstein sued Blackstone, charging the "conversion" of a sealskin coat which she valued at $400. Mrs. Sadie Marks, wife of Attorney Lewis Marks and daughter of Mrs. Goldstein, was a prominent witness.

Blackstone in turn sued Mrs. Goldstein for labor and material involved, he claimed, in making alterations on the coat at Mrs. Goldstein's order. He said he tried to collect his money and finally sold the coat to a pawnbroker.

Judge Brackett returned a finding for the defendant in each case. Mrs. Goldstein and Blackstone are thus out their counsel fees and win nothing. Blackstone is located at No. 564 Washington street, and Mrs. Goldstein lives at No. 1613 Tremont street. Blackstone claimed $160 for his labor and material, and said he sold the coat for $120.

Body of Man in Morgue 7 Years Claimed by Sister

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 13.—After lying unclaimed for seven years in a local morgue, the body of Charles Williams, a ranchman of San Antonio, Texas, has just been identified by his sister, Mrs. Henry Mills, of Caddo, Okla. Mrs. Mills, who had been trying to find her brother for seven years, went to the undertaking establishment on a forlorn hope.

The body was found on the night of March 22, 1908. There was a discharged revolver in his belt and a bullet had pierced his groin.

Southern Pastor Sets Funeral Record

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 13.—The Rev. T. L. Robinson of Bark Camp District has preached for twenty-one years and conducted 1,400 funerals. If these funerals had come one day after another he would have spent nearly four years of his ministry doing nothing but preaching at funerals.

Colorado is Not an Expensive Place to Visit

First rate board in comfortable well kept summer hotels and Ranch houses for around $12 a week. That's what you can get in Colorado and I shall be glad to send you a list of such places, with their attractions and facilities and cost. The officials of the "Burlington Route" (C. B. & Q. Railroad) are interested in telling people about Colorado as a wonderfully attractive summer place, with its glorious Mountains and beautiful valleys and its glaciers and wild flowers. They want in particular to have it understood that a trip there with one's family can be made at moderate cost, and that in all the world there is no more charming country for a restful, healthful, altogether delightful vacation. I am prepared to give you all kinds of information, not only about Colorado, but of California and of Glacier or Yellowstone National Parks, the wonderlands of America.

Write, telephone or call. Make use of me. Let me help you plan a trip—now. No charge for maps and descriptive booklets. Let me send you some describing Colorado.

HAYWOOD SAYS LABOR MUST RULE

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A revolution that would wipe out America's present industrial and political system and establish an ideal era of freedom, was described to the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations as the ultimate object of the Industrial Workers of the World by William D. Haywood, its secretary and treasurer.

A world in which labor should control all the means of production and in which there should be no such thing as "capital" was held up by Haywood as his land of promise. He declared that implacable war between labor and capital, ending with a great general strike and confiscation of the means of production, would bring the workers to that ideal existence.

"There can be no identity of interest between the workers who have only their labor power and such men as Rockefeller and Morgan and their stockholders, who contribute nothing to production," he said.

"The battle is inevitable. Labor must fight for what capital now controls, the means of production, tools, machinery and all of those things which should be controlled by labor alone.

"I have had a dream of a new society some time in which there will be no struggle between capital and labor, in which every man will have free access to the land and the means of production and livelihood."

Commissioner Weinstock questioned Haywood as to what methods would be employed to bring about this change.

"I believe in any kind of tactics," said the witness. "I don't care if it means revolution."

8,000 to Get Jobs Making Rifles at Bay State Plants

SPRINGFIELD, May 13.—L. A. Osborne, senior vice-president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, says negotiations are practically completed for the purchase of the plant and business of the J. Stevens Arms and Tool Company of Chicopee Falls, and the plants of the Stevens Duryea Company in Chicopee Falls and East Springfield. He is making arrangements for the manufacturing of rifles for a belligerent power. It is expected employment will be furnished for 8,000 men.

70 Inspectors View German Steamships

NEW YORK, May 13.—Seventy customs inspectors went to the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American Steamship Company piers in Hoboken, where many German steamers are tied up, including the steamship Vaterland, ostensibly on their regular monthly trip of inspection.

Collamore Will Bequests Held Up By Cousins

Public bequests to the amount of $662,000 given to a number of local institutions by the will of the late Miss Helen Collamore of No. 217 Commonwealth avenue, who died recently at eighty years, are held up by a contest started by two cousins of Miss Collamore, who were cut off in the will.

This large amount was given to philanthropic and educational institutions. The will was filed in the Suffolk probate office on April 23. When it came up for probate today a notice of the contest was filed by Attorney Rufus B. Skinner, who appeared for the cousins contesting, John Richmond Collamore and William Gray Collamore of West Scituate. Her other cousins were given various amounts by the will.

She gave $200,000 to the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Hospital; $100,000 each to Simmons College and The Museum of Fine Arts and $20,000 each to Radcliffe College and the American Unitarian Association.

The residue of her estate was left in equal shares to the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Hospital, Museum of Fine Arts, Simmons College, Radcliffe College and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Capture Assailant After Trapping Him on Fire Escape

Carimne D'Argenio, twenty-five, of No. 121 Prince street, North End, was arrested on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill Sabino Nevallo, thirty-two, of No. 15 Charter street, after he had been trapped on the fire escape of his home by policemen with drawn revolvers.

It is alleged that D'Argenio fired three shots at Nevallo, one of which took effect in the right arm.

D'Argenio ran down Prince street, pursued by officers and took refuge in his home.

Sergeant Donovan and Patrolman Ferrari were searching the house and Sergeant O'Donnell, who was in a small yard in the rear, guarding the fire escape, saw the prisoner emerge from a window on the third floor and lay prostrate on the fire escape. He notified the two officers, inside.

Donovan and Ferrari stepped out of the window, with drawn revolvers, and D'Argenio ran down the fire escape, only to be met at the foot by O'Donnell, who flashed a searchlight in his face and held him up at the point of a revolver.

Rockefeller Wins Cleveland Tax Suit

CLEVELAND, May 13.—John D. Rockefeller today won his suit in the United States District Court here for an injunction to restrain the collection of taxes to the amount of more than $1,500,000 assessed against him in Cuyahoga County on valuation of personal property based on stocks and bonds of $300,000,000.

GERARD EJECTS MAN FROM OFFICE

BERLIN, via The Hague and London, May 13.—Ambassador Gerard recently ejected from the American embassy, Maurice Somborn, European director of the National Sweeper Company of Torrington, Ct., for abuse of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

The ambassador has asked the German government to expel the offender.

Somborn, who is a resident of Marion, Ind., and a naturalized German-American, called at the embassy to see Mr. Gerard. He told the ambassador that Secretary Bryan had "accepted British bribes."

"I won't have anybody insult in my office the Secretary, whom I represent, so you had better get out," Mr. Gerard exclaimed.

"I wont get out," Somborn retorted. "I have evidence that Bryan has been bribed."

Ambassador Gerard repeated his order to the man to leave and when he still refused, called his butler, who finally ejected Somborn, using force.

ARREST OFFICIAL IN BURBECK CASE

Natt Buxton, a Peabody town official and well known in Essex county, was arrested today on a warrant charging him with "enticing a girl." The warrant was sworn out by Chief Michael H. Grady of the Peabody police on complaint of John G. Burbeck, father of seventeen-year-old Esther Burbeck, whose disappearance and subsequent capture at Manchester, N. H., brought her into the limelight three weeks ago.

Buxton's arrest came as an entire surprise to Peabody town officials and townspeople generally. Though Buxton's name was mentioned in the disappearance case, it was later announced that the police had dropped their investigation of the Burbeck girl's disappearance.

Buxton was taken into custody by Patrolman Pierce just as the former had entered the Town Hall on the way to his office. He is the town's inspector of wires.

Buxton stopped to talk with several other town officials. Pierce approached, touched Buxton's arm and produced the warrant.

Buxton was locked up in a cell while arrangements were made for bail. Bonds were fixed at $2,000, it was announced.

The police said Buxton would be arraigned before Judge William H. Fay in the Peabody court. It was Judge Fay who issued the warrant.

At the time that the Burbeck girl was brought back from New Hampshire, Buxton, whose name the police said was found on a bit of paper in the girl's suit case, said:

"My interest in the Burbeck girl was purely friendly. I first met her two years ago in her father's home. Last Summer she worked for a time taking care of my children. I never took her 'joy riding.' I did take her and her mother together on a few automobile rides.

KNEW NOTHING OF MONEY.

"I have no idea where the girl got the money she had. She never said anything in my presence about running away from home."

Buxton is married and has two children.

For the past two weeks the Burbeck girl has been at the home of friends of her parents. A sophomore in the Peabody High School, the girl left home in April. The Peabody and Lynn authorities, after beginning a wide search for her, dragged ponds and made a thorough hunt over the countryside.

Miss Burbeck was finally found at Manchester, N. H., and was arrested when buying a ticket for San Francisco. She had $130 in her purse.

In her long confession to the authorities, the girl called Buxton "her dear friend," her "protector" and her "guide" and he was present when she recounted her experiences to newspaper men on her return to Peabody. He expressed himself as greatly relieved that the girl had been found and brought home.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother

(Modes of Today)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

FERNCROFT TO BE SOLD TODAY

Ferncroft Inn at Middleton is advertised to be sold at public auction this afternoon, with ex-Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem as auctioneer, in his famous silk hat.

No specific reason has been given for the sale by the owner of the inn, Harry K. Mansfield, the defendant in the famous "Tootles" $50,000 suit for alleged breach of promise.

But friends of Mansfield say the notoriety of the "Tootles" suit caused him extreme annoyance and that Middleton and the inn business in that town at least, have lost their charm for him.

Notice of the sale attracted wide attention and a large attendance was expected for "Silk Hat" Hurley of Salem to talk to when the time came to call for bids.

The sale is to include the whole Ferncroft property, land, buildings, furnishings, good will—and two perfectly legal liquor licenses, first and fourth class, good until May 1, 1916.

The property includes 10 acres of land, the inn, garage, sheds, barns and other buildings, and furnishings, all to be sold as one piece.

OPEN THREE-DAY SUFFRAGE RALLY

The last general meeting of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association before the campaign that it expects will secure the constitutional amendment giving the women of this State the right to vote, opens at No. 585 Boylston street this afternoon.

Alice Stone Blackwell will call the delegates to order. The meeting will then act upon the annual reports of the executive officers and of the local leagues.

The banquet at the Somerset tonight will be largely attended. Mrs. Maud Wood Park will preside, and in addition to the speeches there will be a special suffrage musical program.

Among those who will speak are Mayor Curley, ex-Congressman Foster, ex-Governor Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire, Dr. Hugh Cabot and Miss Helen Todd, the eloquent Californian, a voter in that State, and one of the women who helped to organize the great fight that put California on the suffrage map.

The schedule for tomorrow calls for a New England conference at 10 a. m., a campaign conference at 2:30 and a melting pot auction in the evening with Margaret Foley as auctioneer.

Saturday will be Suffrage Day in Massachusetts. The election of officers will take place at 10 a. m. The annual meeting will close with a patriotic demonstration on Boston Common at 1 o'clock, with music and speeches at the Parkman bandstand.

Postpone Dry Vote.

HARTFORD, Ct., May 13.—The House today voted to postpone indefinitely a resolution which would have passed on to the next Assembly for ratification, a constitutional amendment prohibiting the making and selling of intoxicating liquors

OPEN PROHIBITION CONVENTION HERE

The Prohibition State Convention opened today in Kingsley Hall, Ford building. After Chairman Solon W. Bingham of the Prohibition State Committee had called the meeting to order, Wilbur D. Moss, acting secretary, read the official call of the convention, and then Howard F. Kershner, temporary chairman, delivered the "keynote speech."

"I confess to you," Mr. Kershner began, "that I am a belligerent. I am thoroughly in line with President Wilson's foreign policy as regards the European war and am a neutral, but in this international conflict against the liquor traffic I am a belligerent."

He discussed the prohibition movement at length, pointed to its economic benefits, declared prohibition would solve the problem of the unemployed and declared the only way to get prohibition is to elect the prohibition party's nominees.

It was expected that William Shaw of Haverhill would be the convention's choice for Governor.

The Piano Sale That Has Aroused the Interest of People in Six States

Positively Ends Saturday

When this store closes at 5:30 next Saturday night, your opportunity to buy a $350 piano for $229.75 or a $550 player-piano for $397.50 will have gone by.

You will probably never again be offered a reliable New England made piano at such a price.

You will never be offered such terms of payment on such pianos.

You'll never buy a piano with a stronger, broader guarantee, because there couldn't be one written.

You positively cannot afford to let this opportunity pass.

Our Baby Grand Piano for Only $455.

Pay Only $1.25 A WEEK After 1st Payment

You Can't Delay—and You Should Come

You can better afford to put off buying something else—make a sacrifice in some other direction if necessary and seize this opportunity while it is yours. After Saturday it will be too late. This sale offers the piano buyer more than ever before—more, probably, than he'll ever be offered again, for this sale was inaugurated to meet unusual business conditions that had caused a temporary slump in the piano business.

Bear this in mind—we don't handle pianos regularly, but in this instance a famous maker of pianos in New England offered to sell us one hundred of his splendid pianos and 50 of his player-pianos at cost—to keep his factory going and his employees busy—we couldn't resist it.

We saw a chance to make our customers the greatest piano offer ever made. The people saw their opportunity, and the sale that ends Saturday will go down in history as a most remarkable achievement.

But

Don't wait a minute if you want one of these splendid instruments. Time's up! As you read this announcement the last piano of the original allotment will probably be sold. To avoid disappointing any one that comes before Saturday we have arranged with the manufacturer to take orders for pianos and player-pianos at sale prices up to Saturday night. You can select yours from pianos on the floor that have been sold but not delivered. This is

A Special Concession to Late Buyers Today

There positively will not be a piano or player-piano sold after Saturday at any price, for there won't be any to sell. We'll be selling pictures in the space used for pianos today, for, remember, we don't carry pianos regularly.

Remember

After Saturday there'll not a single piano or player-piano will be sold at these prices, or under these conditions.

To share in the savings of this sale you must come before closing time Saturday night.

We tell you this in blackface type with all the emphasis in our power. We want every one to understand this. We've arranged to supply an instrument to every one that comes before closing time Saturday night. This gives every one a last opportunity and a mighty square deal.

The Mailing of this today entitles you to a reservation without obligation.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks opened lower and the volume of business was fair during the first half hour. During that period markets were hesitant and extremely nervous. The international situation was the dominating influence. Traders awaited developments. There was an easier tone to American issues in London, where the whole market was affected by anti-German rioting. By afternoon the American list was mixed. Towards the end of the first hour selling pressure increased in New York. Prices in Boston weakened further after the opening.

At the end of thirty minutes in New York declines included Amalgamated 1⅞, Chino ⅜, Utah Copper 1⅜, Bethlehem Steel 1⅜, American Car & Foundry 1¼, American Locomotive ⅝, Goodrich 1½, Studebaker 2, U. S. Rubber 2½, U. S. Steel 1⅛, Union Pacific 1, Southern Pacific 1⅛, Reading 1⅞, New Haven 1, Lehigh Valley 1¼, Atchison 1⅜, Rock Island 1¼ and American Can 1⅜.

Among losses in Boston were Copper Range ¾, Granby ¾, North Butte ⅜, Osceola ½, Mohawk 1, Wolverine 1, Alaska Gold ⅜ and United Fruit ½. Butte & Superior was up ¼ and American Zinc ⅝.

In London spot copper was off £1 2s 6d, futures 17s 6d and electrolytic was unchanged. Spelter was also unchanged.

NOT AFRAID OF WAR.

According to the Iron Age the steel trade is not disturbed by possibility that this country may be drawn into the greatest of wars. It says:

"War orders and other foreign business have figured so largely in the industry of late that the chance of more war does not cause alarm. A first effect would be an increased home demand in some lines, and deliveries on foreign orders would suffer. Russian rail and car requirements are of immediate interest. Contrary to reports, rail contracts have not been placed, but two steel companies expect to roll 50,000 tons each for Russia, and the total purchases will be around 100,000 tons. Still larger amounts are talked of for the Trans-Siberian Railroad."

BETHLEHEM ORDERS.

It is estimated that war orders received by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation to date total around $100,000,000, not counting work which has been sublet. It has farmed out shrapnel work to the extent of millions of dollars.

BACK PAY FOR MINERS.

The prosperity of the copper industry has led Calumet & Hecla directors to vote to pay to all employes the sum total of wages and salaries they lost during the period of retrenchment, which extended from September 1 to February 1 last. What will be paid in the form of this "extra dividend" to employes of the parent and subsidiary companies totals around $491,175. This is making the Golden Rule out of copper.

BARNES ON STAND AGAINST COLONEL

By International News Service.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 13.—William Barnes today took the stand in his $50,000 libel suit against Theodore Roosevelt. The man whom Roosevelt called "Boss" and accused of being a corrupt, crooked-business crook in political alliance with Charles F. Murphy and Tammany Hall, took the stand with nonchalant air and sat with crossed legs and arms upon the chair. In one hand he held a pencil with which he emphasized his words from time to time.

Barnes gave his name and age, said he lived in Albany and was a publisher.

"Publisher of what?" asked William M. Ivins.

"Of the Albany Evening Journal and other things."

Barnes said he was editor of the Journal.

Barnes said he wrote some of the editorials. He then named the editors and business managers of the Journal since 1898.

Asked to tell his political career, Barnes began with May, 1889.

"There was a primary fight in Albany County," he said, "and the party was split in two factions. I was publishing the Journal and also the Albany Express, a morning paper. I declined to join any faction, so both sides asked me to decide which was right."

Barnes did not tell of his decision in the 1889 fight except to say his decision did not heal the factional breach in Albany County.

Women Plan Work for Boston College

Two hundred prominent women met in Steinert Hall to form a temporary organization to inspire an interest in social and other activities of Boston College students. All are friends or relatives of the students. The meeting was under the auspices of the Graduate Athletic Advisory Board, of which Edward J. Brandon, city clerk of Cambridge, is chairman. Among those present were: Edwin A. Shuman, Mrs. William W. Taff, Mrs. John F. Read, Mrs. Charles P. Mooney, Mrs. Hugh C. McGrath, Mrs. Edward J. Brandow, Mrs. James H. Carney, Mrs. William F. Fitzgerald, Mrs. John R. Whelton, Mrs. John E. Gilman.

SAWTELLE QUITS BRIDE FOR TIFF

Domestic troubles between the Harold Sawtelles of Brookline, Winthrop and Hartford, Ct., became known today for the first time when the bride admitted at her mother's Brookline home, that, following a "tiff" a fortnight ago, young Mr. Sawtelle left her, that she set detectives on his trail and that the absent Harold has just been located at the home of his sister, Mrs. Hanford L. Curtis of New Britain, Ct.

Mrs. Sawtelle had asked her husband for details of a new job he had secured. She says he wouldn't tell her. Then the tiff, thus (quoting the bride):

"Then followed a little tiff. I was going out to a friend's house and I stood up in my shoes and asked him if a wife wasn't to be confided in, who was to be, and told if he didn't want to confide in me, why he could just leave (stamp)—which Harold did."

WIFE TELLS STORY.

The bride was standing on the piazza of her mother's home at No. 55 Marion street, Brookline, today, as she gave the interview, and she stamped her foot smartly on the piazza floor.

The house, by the way, is just around the corner from the Ainslee home on Harvard street, where Mrs. Henry Clarke Coe, Jr., the deserted wife and mother, is living, whose husband is in Alaska.

"Say, too," pursued Mrs. Sawtelle, "that Harold left me without any means of support."

Then she added solemnly:

"I don't want to say whether I shall apply for a divorce or whether I shall put the matter in the hands of the District Attorney."

The bride is fair and slender and blonde, and all worked up. After that dire hint about "divorce" and the District Attorney, she flashed out:

"I would just like to see Harold and talk with him. I don't think I could live with him again. But, on the other hand, I think he loves me, because he took all my pictures with him."

SUREOF HAROLD'S LOVE.

Mrs. Sawtelle is the daughter of Mrs. William Wilberforce Newton, widow of a former rector of St. Paul's in Boston, and also of St. Paul's Church, Brookline. He was one of the leading Episcopalian divines this side of New York.

Harold Sawtelle's father was a druggist in Hartford. Harold's sister married Hanford L. Curtis, cashier of a Hartford bank, who makes his home in New Britain.

After their marriage a year ago Harold and his bride lived for a while in Hartford. But the bride now says that "there was too much family interference." Then they came to Boston.

ONE DRESS SINCE MARRIAGE.

"I was economical," asserts Mrs. Sawtelle, "because I had to be. I have been used to paying $25 to $30 for suits without any question, but since I married I have bought but one dress, an inexpensive one.

"The limit of our dissipations was the 'movies.'

"When we came to live with my mother in Brookline Harold was not at work. Mother naturally became weary of this. He left mother's home and I went with him of my own accord, as I did not wish to live in luxury and see him scratching around for a living and eating in cheap places. I stuck to him and we went to Winthrop a month ago.

"Then Harold secured a new position, but would not explain it to me and we had a tiff and he left and I came home to mother. I thought he was with or near his parents, for sympathy, after things had taken a turn for the worse."

At the close of her statement the bride relented again and allowed that "maybe I've been too hard on Harold."

Anyhow, she would like to see him.

Mate's Wife Sails on Bark as Mascot

Mrs. Louise Williamson, wife of Frederick Williamson, first mate on the Boston owned bark Ruth Stark, has sailed with him as a mascot on the vessel which is bound for Liverpool with the first load of lumber that has left here for twenty years for England in a sailing vessel. The Ruth Stark has nearly a million feet of spruce aboard. The bark has been in port for nearly thirteen months, and during that time she changed her registry. On both sides of the vessel large American flags are painted to identify her in passing through the war zone.

STOPS FALLING HAIR

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half pint of water add:
Bay Rum.......................1 oz.
Barbo Compound......a small box
Glycerine......................¼ oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, and relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

CONTEST NEARS HALF WAY MARK

The first vote standing of all candidates in the AMERICAN'S California Tours Contest will be printed in the Sunday AMERICAN two weeks from next Sunday, May 30.

The Contest Manager hoped to be able to publish the vote standing earlier, but the magnitude of the task of counting, tabulating and checking is such that an earlier publication is utterly impossible.

The day after tomorrow will see the end of the first half of this remarkable contest. It behooves all candidates to speed up their vote-gathering efforts NOW.

The twenty-five Tours DE LUXE to California and the Expositions are going to be enjoyed by some among you, candidates. It's up to the individuals in the race to determine who the twenty-five shall be on the AMERICAN'S DE LUXE train when it leaves Boston on July 24th.

Gets 18 Chickens from Thirteen Eggs

DEXTER, Me., May 13.—Ralph C. Blethen claims the New England record for hatching chickens. Three weeks ago he placed thirteen eggs beneath one of his prize Plymouth Rock hens. When he inspected the nest he discovered eighteen chicks. His only explanation is that some of the eggs must have been double yolked.

ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS FOR ALL PAIN

"The efficiency of any drug" says Dr. C. P. Robbins, "is known to us by the results we obtain from its use. If we are able to control pain and disease by means of any preparation, we certainly are warranted in its use. One of the principal symptoms of all diseases is pain, and this is what the patient most often applies to us for, i. e. something to relieve his pain. If we can arrest this promptly, the patient is most liable to trust in us for the other remedies which will effect a permanent cure. One remedy which I have used largely in my practice is Anti-kamnia Tablets. Many and varied are their uses. I have put them to the test on many occasions and have never been disappointed. I found them especially valuable for headaches of malarial origin, where quinine was being taken. They appear to prevent the bad after-effects of the quinine. Anti-kamnia Tablets are also excellent for the headaches from improper digestion; also for headaches of neuralgic origin, and especially for women subject to pains at certain times. Two Anti-kamnia Tablets give prompt relief, and in a short time the patient is able to go about as usual." These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcelled for headaches, neuralgia and all pains.

1½ Ton Worm Drive

You Need This New Garford

This new 1½ ton worm drive Garford fills more hauling requirements than any other size of truck.

It is the happy medium between heavy duty and light delivery trucks. It is the truck of greatest usefulness.

Heavy enough to be rugged, powerful and dependable.

Light enough to be speedy and economical without a suggestion of frailty.

It is correctly designed and built to carry the average load—and to do it at less than horse cost.

We are particularly anxious to meet the man whose delivery system shows a loss instead of a profitable business-building service. We want to show him facts—proofs of Garford efficiency.

And remember this—

Our policy is to encourage the sale and use of trucks only where conditions insure economic service. Our business success is measured by your good will.

ASK COLLEGE MEN TO UPHOLD WILSON

The Harvard Alumni Bulletin calls upon the college educated men of the country to uphold President Wilson's hands in whatever action he may take in reference to the war abroad. The Bulletin editorially says.

"The list of Harvard men lost on the Lusitania appears fortunately to be short. The Harvard community has its part, with the rest of the Anglo-Saxon world, in the sorrows of warfare as it has come to be conducted.

"The men whose thought and spirit have been trained in our American universities owe a special debt to the nation and its chief magistrate in helping to spread throughout the people only that wrath which is a righteous wrath and to stand at the government's right hand in every effort to bring to its most delicate and portentous of problems that wisdom and vigor and deep concern for mankind which all the world expects of it at this moment.

"It happens that the President of the United States conspicuously represents the type of university man in public life. It is not enough to spare him embarrassment through ill-judged speech. His hands must be held up most of all by those who are his brothers in training and ideals."

MANY SAILORS ON 'SAWDUST TRAIL'

PATERSON, N. J., May 13.—"Billy" Sunday captured 500 jackies of the Atlantic fleet, at anchor in the Hudson, at one of the most excited of his remarkable revival meetings. Over 400 of the detail of sailors in the tabernacle "hit the trail" and then nearly lifted the roof exchanging cheers with the rest of the big gathering.

Following the sailors over 300 civilians also "hit the trail." Many of them were from the big Masonic delegation. Sunday was beside himself with satisfaction. "It's the greatest meeting I ever saw," he declared.

OFF WITH HIS COAT.

Sunday, at the close of his stirring sermon, "If Any Man Will," concentrated his attention to moving the sailors "on the trail."

Stripping off his coat, he leaned to the front of the platform with arms outstretched.

"Men, it's a wonderful time in history—it's a wonderful time to give yourselves to Christ. How many of you men—you boys of the navy—of the navy especially—how many of you will come forward and take my hand and say I accept Jesus Christ as my Saviour, the best I know how.

"How many will come?" pleaded Sunday.

FOR MOTHER'S SAKE.

"Come on, you boys, and then write home to your mother about it," continued Sunday, his face illumined with a fascinating smile. Personal workers were shifting noiselessly hither and thither.

The white braid of two sailor collars suddenly appeared on the trail.

"Praise God, they're coming," cried Sunday over his shoulder to Rody, as the line of blue slowly began to flow down the sawdust path. And as the choir swelled into the stirring "Glory, glory, hallelujah," and the men poured forward, the great concourse of people rose like a cheering wave. Standing on their chairs and cheering, with the rest was the whole ministers' section. Women weeping, lent their shrill voices to the outburst.

GERMAN HITS BACK AT T. R. CRITICISM

BERLIN, via London, May 13.—Baron Mumm von Schwarzenstein of the German Foreign Office, commenting on the words attributed to ex-President Roosevelt that the sinking of the Lusitania was the greatest act of piracy in history, authorized the following statement:

"If Mr. Roosevelt used these words, then he hurled an insult at the whole German people which we bitterly resent, even at a time when we have to submit to the hatred and falsity of enemies and former friends. He insulted, without excuse, men who, fearless of death, discharged their duty to the Fatherland in the hour of need, without hope of booty.

"That peaceful citizens of neutral countries went to the bottom with the Lusitania distresses us, too, but they were warned. Whoever goes into danger must bear the consequences. The zone of war is no golf links, the ships of belligerent powers no pleasure places.

"That the people of England long have been expecting the sinking of the Lusitania, which today is judged so harshly, is proved by the Lusitania's unjustifiable flying of the American flag on one preceding voyage. Why did Americans believe the beautiful assurances of England rather than our well-meant warning?

"The sinking of the Lusitania was for us a military necessity, not only because she was equipped with guns for fighting, but especially because we had to protect our brave soldiers from death and destruction by American munitions of war.

"We have sympathy with the victims and their relatives, of course, but did we hear anything about sympathy from neutrals when England formed her diabolical plan of starving a great nation?"

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.

FROM this she took a gold crown that had been taken from the grave of some old Egyptian queen—two gold snakes, their heads and tails twisted together. And she put this upon her head and went and stood in front of a long mirror.

Then she began to play-act: to look very haughty and dignified or very gracious and condescending, to extend her hand and to be kissed by imaginary courtiers. She was half in earnest, half laughing.

She heard a soft hesitation; there was no time to discard the crown and the robe. Blushing crimson and feeling very ridiculous, she turned and saw one of the footmen.

His wooden face showed no surprise at her eccentric costume. He did not even appear to see it. He carried a small silver tray on which was a white card.

"Who is it, Bentadge?"

"Young Mr. Barclay, Miss."

Her impulse was to run to the great hall stair and call down to Tommy. But she hesitated. Then her eye roved once more, and she caught a glimpse of herself in the long mirror.

"Tell him," she said, "that I am not at home."

Tommy, sure of his welcome, had been told that Miss Blackstone was at home, and had leisurely followed the footman upstairs to the door of the little sitting room.

When he heard her say coolly, even coldly, "Tell him that I am not at home," he felt as if he had been struck between the eyes. And then anger seized him. For she had promised that she would be at home on that particular afternoon, and now here she was saying that she wasn't.

Of course there was nothing that he could do but turn and go. And of course he did these things.

When he was in the open air he drew a long breath.

"I'll get out of this damned city," he said, "and if she happens to want me for anything she'll find that I'm the one that's not at home."

Like many other rich men, Barclay owned a hunting preserve in the Adirondacks and seldom went near it. But the five granite mountains surrounded by dense forests thickly sprinkled with lakes, was one of Tommy's favorite stamping grounds. It wasn't so much that he enjoyed killing animals or seeing how many fish he could catch as that once in a while he liked to be alone and to keep alive and comfortable by his own exertions.

The preserve was real wilderness. One dirt road led from the railroad station at Four Corners to the main camp at the head of the biggest lake, but otherwise the region boasted only a few narrow trails. And you had to make your way from one landmark to another as best you could. And either you had to take plenty of condensed food in tins or trust to your skill with rod and rifle to keep you from going hungry.

Tommy would leave the train at Four Corners, hire a team, and get himself put down somewhere along the road leading to the main camp. He would then choose a direction almost at random, walk until he was tired, build a low lean-to shelter, have supper or not, according to luck, make a workmanlike fire to keep his feet warm, curl up in his blanket and pass a luxurious night. Waking at daylight, bruised, sore, cold, and for some reason known only to those who love the woods, perfectly happy and contented.

His kit on these trips consisted of a blanket, a frying pan, a kettle, a change of underclothes, a very light 22-calibre rifle, a 4-oz. fly rod, a compass, a pipe, tobacco, and a few other odds and ends, such as matches and salt and a pair of field glasses, and an Oxford book of verse.

One night a few days after Mary Blackstone had treated him so cavalierly, Tommy camped on high ground by the headwaters of a brook.

Just back of his shelter of balsam boughs a knob of granite stood up clear above the surrounding forest. Tommy always called it the hub, because it was almost the exact centre of the great ring, traced roughly by the five mountains, and afforded glorious views of them and of the low country, lakes, forest and swamp that intervened. It was Tommy's favorite camping ground. He would sit for hours on the top of the hub, his legs hanging over into space, gazing and dreaming.

On the particular night in question he climbed the hub after a fine supper of trout and ruffed grouse, filled a pipe and watched the day fade and the stars come out. What he enjoyed most was the sense of solitude; civilization, of course, was within reasonable reach in any direction, but Tommy did not feel as if it was.

He felt as if there wasn't another human being within hundreds of miles. There were men at the main camp, only fifteen miles away, but he protested that there weren't, and that he was in the heart of a vast unexplored country which no other white man had ever visited.

Presently the moon began to rise, and that always made Tommy mournful and sentimental. If he had been a dog he would have thrown back his head and howled. Being a young man he sighed, and began to imagine that he and she (a romantic edition of Mary Blackstone with better manners and less worldliness) had come to this wilderness to escape from the outside world and to make their home. What fun it would be! How he would work to make her happy and comfortable! How easy it would be for them to get along forever without anybody else to bother them.

A Scene from the Dramatic Serial, "The Goddess"

Tommy Barclay (Earl Williams) in his Adirondack camp after the girl he loves refuses to see him

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WRITE AND ASK

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of twenty and have been keeping company with a young fellow one year my senior. He has asked me to marry him on my twenty-first birthday, which will be in June, and I have consented, as my folks are willing, also his. Now I have just received word from him that he can't see me any more, no reason whatever given. Now I would like to find out the reason, as I love him dearly.

HEARTBROKEN A. B.

CAN you not write him a friendly little note, saying that you are surprised and sorry at what he has written you, and asking him to tell you what the trouble is? If a misunderstanding is responsible for his attitude, this would clear it up.

STUDY YOURSELF

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man, twenty-one years of age and am six feet tall. I have always tried to act the part of the gentleman when with ladies, but for some reason girls my age seem to ignore me, and it is necessary for me to resort to the kind known as "flappers."

Can you tell me what I can do to win them over? Am considered very good-looking, but apparently my size is against me. Truly, J. G. H.

THE trouble is not with your size, I am afraid. A man's height has very little to do with his popularity or unpopularity with girls. Study yourself a little more closely and see if you cannot discover the qualities which cause girls to dislike you.

Its Drawbacks

A certain London auctioneer, in addition to a fine personal appearance and splendid elocutionary talents, is possessed of considerable culture and knowledge of human nature.

At a book sale this gentleman would read with exquisite taste passages from the books he was selling, with brief biographies and criticisms of their authors, reciting hexameters from Greek and Roman classics and rendering passages from humorous writers with a tone and air so ludicrous as to set the room in a roar of laughter. Thus he often won bigger prices for books than those got at the shops.

An amusing example of his cleverness in extolling an estate is the language with which he once closed a highly colored description of the property he was selling. For a few moments he paused, and then said:

"And now, gentlemen, having given a truthful description of this magnificent estate, candor compels me to admit that it has two drawbacks—the litter of the rose leaves and the noise of the nightingales."

The Reverse

He—As I was saying, Miss Maymie, when I start out to do a thing I stay on the job. I'm no quitter.

She (with a weary yawn)—Don't I know it!

"Just couldn't wait to take my hat off!"

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let your sore, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "TIZ."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "TIZ" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "TIZ" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "TIZ." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "TIZ." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good Druggists.

Truths About the Skin

Nowadays there are specialists in every branch of the medical profession. A chemist, who had made a study of skin troubles, and was convinced that the old method of taking internal medicines was wrong, discovered that an extract from the tree Juniperus Oxycedrus possessed properties that had a wonderful soothing and healing effect in skin troubles. This important extract is now combined with other ingredients in a form convenient for general use and is known as Cadum ointment. It has cured many cases of eczema and other unsightly irritating skin diseases. Some of the cures may be truly called wonderful. People who have suffered for years can now take fresh courage, because Cadum ointment is entirely different from anything else. It gives immediate relief in all forms of skin troubles such as pimples, blotches, hives, tetter, itch, acne, herpes, scaly skin, rash, sores, chafings, scabs, piles, etc. Trial box, 10c. THEIR MARRIED LIFE

Warren and Helen Are Not the Only Ones Who Can Spend Money

Copyright, [illegible] News Service

"ISN'T it awfully early, dear?" said Helen as Warren roused her.

"Well, we want a good start," he explained, "and I thought you wanted to see about the lunch."

"I do, but that will only take a few minutes. I have everything ready and all I have to do is to make the coffee."

"Is Nora up?" Warren questioned.

"She hasn't come home from church yet," said Helen, who was bustling around. "Would you like the coffee iced, dear? It feels as though it were going to be a hot day."

"You might ice one bottle and have one hot," said Warren, as usual not stopping to consider the extra trouble, and Helen smiled to herself as she went out into the kitchen to see if the kettle was boiling. Nora had everything ready to start breakfast as soon as she returned, and as Helen was finishing the sandwiches the key turned in the lock and Nora came in quickly.

"Oh, Mrs. Curtis," she began, "I'll attend to everything; you go in and dress," and Helen relinquished things gladly and went into her room to finish dressing.

"I'll just have a cup of coffee," said Warren, who had finished dressing, "and then I'll go down to the garage to see if everything is all right."

Before she was ready to snatch something herself she heard the door close and knew that Warren had left. Helen felt very happy this morning. She was feeling well and this was their first long trip in the car. They were going to take a picnic lunch and go off in the country for the day. It was so different from the way they generally spent their Sundays, and Helen could not help thinking to herself how different Warren had been lately.

"Have the asparagus for dinner, Nora," she said, "with the cream sauce, and roast one of the chickens. You made the ice cream, didn't you?"

"Yes, ma'am, strawberry."

"That's fine; I guess they'll enjoy their dinner."

"Everything's ready now, Mrs. Curtis; is there anything more?"

"No, Nora, there isn't another thing, and thank you for helping me."

Helen finished her breakfast and went back to her room. She got out her steamer coat and tried the effect of a new black and white sport hat. Then she was ready and she sat down to wait for Warren. The sound of the horn down below made her run to the window, but it was not their car, and Helen sat down before the open window and skimmed over the papers.

"There you are, dear," she said as the door opened and Warren came in. "You must have come up very quietly, I never heard you drive up. Is everything all right?"

"No, it isn't," Warren growled; "had a flat tire just as I was driving out of the garage."

"That's a shame," said Helen sympathetically. "But it's early and we have the whole day."

Warren growled out something from the bedroom and then called:

"Have you seen anything of my gloves?"

"I thought you left them in your coat."

"Here they are," he said crossly. "Are you ready?"

"All ready, Warren. Will you take the box and I'll carry the coffee."

They went down in the elevator, and as they arranged things in the car and Warren climbed in and they were off Helen was almost exuberant with a combination of the morning and the car.

"Where are we going?" she said happily.

Warren was flushed from bending over to adjust something and answered her abruptly.

"Up to the North Shore."

"Do you think Bob and Louise will meet us?"

"Sure, that's why we're going there."

They whizzed along through the warm Spring air, and Warren's spirits rose with the distance they covered.

"They have a surprise for you," he said, above the rush of the wind.

They reached their destination about 10 o'clock and made their way down to the water's edge. Helen asked no questions as they got out and made their way down to the pier of the boathouse. Bob shouted to them and Louise came running up.

"Come on," she said; "you don't know about it, do you?" and then as Helen followed her down, "you're not the only ones who can be sporty."

Bob was fussing over a long, graceful boat that lay in the water. The sun sparkled on the shining wheel and the engine emitted little snorts and puffs as though anxious to be off.

"Isn't it a stunner?" said Louise enthusiastically.

"Yours!" said Helen incredulously.

"Ours," said Louise decidedly, "and we're going to cruise along the coast and take you with us. Isn't it a great plan?"

"That's why he started so early," vouchsafed Warren.

"Are you surprised?" said Bob.

"Am I surprised?" said Helen. "I feel as though I had suddenly become a member of the four hundred. What wonderful times we ought to have."

ZOE ✤ The Story of a Great Love

(Copyright, [illegible], Associated Newspapers, Ltd. [illegible] A. [illegible] by International News Service.)

(By CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN.)

THERE was something almost uncanny about it. He fingered the check nervously. He had never held so much money in his hand before, nor was he likely to again. Ten thousand pounds! A fortune! And Brooke's signature? A strange medley of [illegible] thoughts came to him. He wondered how Zoe had got the check out of him, what possible excuse she could have made for asking for such a preposterous sum. He wondered what on earth Brooke could have been thinking about to give such a sum to a woman. He might be generous to a fault and throw away a hundred or two without much thought, but a man, especially a millionaire, does not throw about thousands.

HE GETS ALSO A LETTER FROM LEVEREDGE

He smiled a little cynically as he read Zoe's letter over again, and then replaced it with the cheque in its envelope. He would secure it immediately. He could have shouted for sheer joy that circumstances had not placed him in the position when he would even have had to go so low as to use Brooke's money to save Brooke's wife.

He was glad, in a way, to notice that Zoe signed herself "Diana Brooke." It told him that she was cautious. He liked the discreet tone of the letter; he liked the "Dear Mr. Crawley." It puzzled him just a little remembering, as he did, the passionate wording of the last letter she had written him; but nevertheless he was very satisfied. Yes, it was altogether eminently satisfactory.

He returned to the perusal of the remainder of his correspondence. There were several bills, two or three cards of invitation, tickets, circulars and a letter from Messrs. Leveredge & Maberly. He opened it eagerly. It ran as follows:

"Dear Mr. Crawley—Referring to our interview of today"—it was a typewritten letter signed by Mr. Leveredge—"I propose calling upon you at 8.30 tomorrow morning for your answer. We are anxious to meet you in every reasonable way, but you must see that the exhibition must open at the usual time tomorrow unless you close with our offer.—Yours faithfully, I. LEVEREDGE."

Crawley laughed as he read the letter. Leveredge might come and go. What mattered it? Afterward, when Leveredge knew, there would be the very devil to pay; but Crawley regarded the crisis with equanimity. He was quite prepared to pay the devil; indeed, he was prepared to do anything now.

He was thoroughly enjoying his bacon and eggs, when Mr. Leveredge was announced.

"Morning, Crawley!" he exclaimed, fatuously. "Didn't expect to find you up so early. How goes it?"

"Splendidly," said Crawley, with his mouth full. "Sit down. Had breakfast?"

"An hour ago. Been to the gallery, too."

Crawley started.

"You've been to the gallery?" he said dully, and peered into the great dealer's face a little fearfully; but there was nothing in the bland smile of Mr. Leveredge but amiability combined with a little of the scent of a bargain. Obviously, Mr. Leveredge had not seen the "Circe" yet. That was a surprise in store for him, and a trial in store for Crawley.

Leveredge took a chair and regarded the artist with a unctuous smile.

"Go on with your breakfast, my dear old friend," he said. "Don't mind me. I'm in no great hurry. It's only just half-past, and I gave you till nine, you know."

"Oh, but I can settle at once," interrupted Crawley. "I was going to wire you first thing only I got your letter!"

"Ha! So you agree?" Mr. Leveredge's fishy eyes gleamed craftily.

CRAWLEY TELLS HIM THE DEAL IS OFF

Crawley shook his head.

"No," he said; "I don't. It's off!"

"You mean——"

"That you can open your show today and try to get some one else to give you fifteen thousand pounds for the 'Circe.' I can't. So that's settled. Sorry if I've put you to any great inconvenience. Let me know what you have lost in receipts by shutting up yesterday."

Mr. Leveredge's face fell. It was very apparent that he was surprised and disappointed.

"If it's a matter of price," he muttered, a little thickly, "of course the figure I named might, under the exceptional circumstances of the case, and you being a personal friend, and me looking upon it as a more or less personal matter, so to speak—the figure, I say, might be reduced a trifle."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

A Sure Way to Remove Coarse, Hairy Growths

Stubborn growths of coarse hair which have been caused by the unwise use of pastes and rub-on preparations can be devitalized with De Miracle, the original liquid hair remover, because it attacks hair under the skin as well as on the skin. Le Bon Ton says: De Miracle is "the best method in the world today." Only genuine publications of the highest character are quoted by us. Beware of so-called hair removers which are supposedly recommended through bogus quotations from so-called magazines which do not exist. —Advertisement.

SO I can sing, every trouble seems sped,
So I can sing, all the darkness is fled;
Not all the sorrows of lifetime brood long,
If I but feel still the surging of song;
Fountains of hope in my heart ever spring—
So I can sing.

So I can sing, all the neighbors may go
Off where they peace and deep quiet can know;
On from apartment to houses we move,
So I may trill out the scales that I love;
Roused are the birds in the country in Spring—
So I can sing.

THE CHARM OF MOTHERHOOD

Enhanced By Perfect Physical Health.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

For over thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

Pure Food Expert Investigates Grape-Nuts

Before Grape-Nuts was included in the Pure Food Directory of the New York Globe, the publishers sent their expert, Alfred W. McCann, to get the facts about this famous cereal food—what it is made of, how it is made, and whether or not too much had been claimed for it.

The makers have always held that Grape-Nuts is a body and brain-building food; that it contains the vital mineral elements lacking in white flour, and foods made from white flour; that it digests more readily than any other prepared cereal food, etc.

McCann came to Battle Creek at the Globe's expense. He investigated—had the run of the factory—up-stairs, down-stairs and all over the place.

In the N. Y. Globe of April 1, 1915, he said:

"Any man who can go to Battle Creek and come away with the statement that he is not amazed is given to the habit of bearing false witness against his neighbor.

"I watched the delivery of the wheat to the Grape-Nuts bakery. It was selected wheat too. I watched the mills grind this wheat, and there was no patent flour stunt pulled off in grinding it either. The wheat went right through the rolls and came out as honest and as unrefined as when it went in. I saw this wheat mixed with barley malt in a mixing room that is a model of cleanliness.

"Grape-Nuts is an honest, genuine, wholesome, good, fool-proof breakfast food.

"Grape-Nuts is all Post ever claimed for it. Instead of over-estimating the truth he didn't tell ten percent of it."

There you have it! If you want to know more, write Alfred W. McCann, care N. Y. Globe, N. Y., or come to Battle Creek and see for yourself. There's no mystery about Grape-Nuts.

This wonderful food DOES build body, brain and nerve tissue. It DOES furnish the vital mineral phosphates usually lacking in the daily dietary. It is easily digestible, economical, and comes ready to eat, fresh and delicious.

BILL BEATTY TAKES SECOND PLACE IN CANDLEPIN EVENT AT BIG BOWLING TOURNAMENT

CHARLEY WHITE HAS NEW RIVAL

By JACK CONWAY.

BILLY McCARNEY, the man who developed the late Luther McCarthy, has a new aspirant for ring honors. His name is Charley Thomas and he is advertised as the featherweight champion of France. Thomas is now a lightweight and has experienced considerable success since he started to battle with the 133-135 pound boxers.

McCarney is anxious to match Thomas for a tussle, to be staged at the Atlas A. A. He says that the French boxer would like to exchange blows with Gilbert Gallant, Matty Baldwin, Willie Ritchie or Charley White.

The majority of the leading lightweights have been avoiding White. Thomas, however, believes that he would be able to beat the Chicago ring sensation in a contest over the twelve-round route. Thomas recently held White to a six-round draw in Philadelphia.

THE bout was a spirited affair. Here is what the Philadelphia Record had to say about the contest:

"Charley White and Charley (Kid) Thomas, the local lightweight, boxed six sensational rounds for the wind-up at the Olympia, and at the end the best White was entitled to was a draw. On St. Patrick's night White fought in this city and he knocked Sam Robideau down three times and out in the first round. He looked like a champion, and the spectators thought he was a terrific hitter. Last night he hit Thomas forty or fifty times with each hand, right on the jaw, and he not only did not knock Thomas down, but, in fact, the most the blows could do was to make Thomas laugh.

Many of White's blows Thomas took just to get back one himself, for he could have blocked them or avoided them had he chosen to do so. White landed the greater number of blows, but he had little steam in them, while every punch that Thomas landed hurt White. In the first round Thomas had White's nose bleeding from straight punches to that organ. In the third Thomas cut White under the left eye. In the fourth he had White holding from stomach punches, one of which landed right on the solar plexus.

They were close to White's corner and when Thomas landed, the blow lifted White almost off his feet and made him grunt. In the sixth Thomas landed hard and White was holding before the end of the round to try to avoid the stomach punches. White jabbed Thomas many times and finally brought the blood from the local boxer's nose and lips. But as Thomas' nose is broken and bleeds easily he showed more marks of punishment than he really received.

Thomas forced the fighting in every round and never let up trying to get in blows to the Chicago fighter's head and body. At the end of the bout, Thomas jumped out of the ring and ran to his dressing room. White was in bad shape and it was five minutes before he was able to leave the ring and then he walked out as if he was in bad shape and he appeared to be sick at his stomach.

White did not appear like a championship candidate when he was leaving the ring and there was more than one man at the ringside when the bout was over who said they would be willing to wager that White would not last ten rounds with Thomas. The men weighed in at 3 o'clock. Thomas was a trifle over 130 pounds. White was just under 133."

After reading the above report and seeing White knock out Eddie Murphy here, we are forced to admit that the Quaker youth must be a swell boxer.

GILBERT GALLANT will probably be seen in action at the Atlas A. A. again within a few weeks. The Chelsea boy proved that he is a real "come back" when he won a decision over Sam Robideau the other night. Alex McLean's protege is fighting better today than he has at any time during his career in the ring and should make things mighty interesting for the lightweights whom he meets during the next six months. The Atlas A. A. management is planning to have Freddy Welsh appear in this city and the chances are that he will be pitted against the rugged Chelsea youth.

SPEAKING of boxers who have improved, it is well not to forget Patsy DeLucca of the North End, who fought an eight-round draw with Bay Wood. DeLucca has always possessed plenty of natural fighting ability but he lacked aggressiveness. Eddie Mack has finally managed to teach DeLucca how to keep fighting at top speed all of the time.

"KID" LEE, the clever Chelsea featherweight, is back in Boston after an extensive campaign in San Francisco and New Orleans. Lee made a fine record during his sojourn away from home and says that he is open to meet any of New England's 122-pound glove wielders. While campaigning in the West and South, Lee clashed with such well-known boxers as Jimmy Fox, Eddie Miller, Earl Puyer and Jim Holden.

MATTY BALDWIN is training at Lynnfield for his twelve-round bout with Willie Ritchie, the former lightweight champion, which will be decided before the Atlas A. A. next Tuesday night. Baldwin is one of the few men who ever received a referee's decision over Ritchie. The Frisco youth lost to Baldwin in a twenty-round contest in California before he won the lightweight championship from Ad Wolgast.

Clabby and Chip Chased from Ring

NEW YORK, May 12.—Referee Billy Roche won the boxing argument at St. Nicholas Rink between Jimmy Clabby of Indiana and George Chip of Newcastle, Pa. In the eighth round of the bout Roche became so exasperated because the aforesaid Chip and Clabby would not fight as if they meant it that he stopped the bout and sent all the men folks home. Also the few women folks who were there. Both Chip and Clabby at times left themselves wide open, and at these moments neither seemed ambitious enough to take advantage of the opportunities.

Lynn Signs One and Releases Two Players

Jack Ens, the former Eastern League star, has signed with the Lynn New England League team and will probably play first base. Ens played with Bridgeport last season. Clarence Robinson has been released by Lynn to the Fitchburg team and Jack Clancy, the South Boston boy, was given his unconditional release.

SPORT QUERIES

Q—In a recent game A batted in place of B and the umpire called A out for batting out of turn, and then allowed B to bat. Is he right?
W. B. R.

A—We would advise the umpire to look up rule 51, section 1, which states that only the proper batsman shall be declared out in such an instance. In your case the umpire called out the wrong man.

Q—How far is it from second base to home plate, and is the pitcher's box midway between? C. H. T.

A—The distance from home to second base is approximately 127 feet and the back end of the pitcher's slab is exactly in the centre of the diamond.

Q—What is the first name of Quinlan, the outfielder who recently joined the White Sox? C. C.

A—Quinlan's front name is Tommy and he insists that the words "big leaguer" are also prefixed to name.

Q—Can you tell me if Jack Dillon is that middleweight's real name?
H. LANG.

A—According to the year book Dillon's real name is Ernest Cutler Price. Why he should want to change it to Jack Dillon is a real mystery.

Q—How did the White Sox get Infielder Baker? SOUTH BOSTON

A—Baker was purchased last Winter from the Evansville club of the Central League.

Q—When was the first double play made in baseball? BILLY B.

A—The first recorded double play occurred June 14, 1870, George Wright, shortstop of the famous Cincinnati Red Stockings, in a game against the Athletics of Brooklyn, put out McDonald and Smith.

Q—When was Harry Wolverton signed to manage the New York Yankees? NEW YORKER.

A—Wolverton was signed in the Fall of 1911 to handle the Yankees in 1912. Like a majority of the Yankee managers, he lasted only a short time.

Q—What is the slowest game on record? SAM WOLFF.

A—About the longest game on record was played at Carrollton, Ky., during the season of 1868, which lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning and was called on account of darkness at 6 o'clock in the evening, with only seven innings completed.

GOTHAM STADIUM LEADER OF KIND

Work has been started on the mammoth motordrome and sports amphitheatre which has been proposed and discussed for New York for the last five years. This project, which is expected to rival the Brookland track of England and the Indianapolis Auto Speedway, will be located on the grounds of the old Coney Island Jockey Club, not far from the ocean front in Brooklyn. A two-mile track, capable of permitting auto speeding in excess of one hundred miles per hour and a series of stands to accommodate about 200,000 spectators, will be in readiness for the first meet in the Autumn.

The new sport centre will not be confined to automobile racing entirely, for the plans call for baseball, polo, football and aviation fields. Space will also be alloted to tennis courts and other outdoor games. It is the intention of the promoters, who include in the board of directors many men prominent in automobiling and amateur sports, to provide sufficient space for both contestants and spectators for all forms of athletic competition for years to come. Facilities of this have been lacking for several years, and it is expected that with the completion of the new sports field there will be a revival of many feature events in the sporting schedules of New York each year.

Brockton Stands Under Official Ban

BROCKTON, May 13.—The grandstand and bleachers at the Colonial League baseball park have been put under the official ban by Superintendent of Buildings Howard L. Gibbs. The stands must be repaired to his satisfaction or else the opening of the league season here on May 20 will not be allowed. Work will begin immediately.

Lighter Shot for Boys.

The Harvard track management has decided to use a 12-pound shot in the interscholastic games next Saturday, after a postcard canvas of the various schools entered, all of whom favor the lighter weight.

FOREIGN BIKERS HERE FOR RACES

Three foreign bicycle riders have arrived in New York on the French liner Rochambeau, forming the advance guard of the contingent that is coming from the war zone to take part in the races at the Revere cycle track this season.

The men in the party were Georges Seres of France, Caesar Moretti of Italy and Thorwald Ellegard of Denmark. M. Naso, the leading pacemaker of Europe, postponed his sailing until the next steamer on account of the illness of his wife.

The men had a slight scare when they sighted a submarine, but it turned out to be an English craft on scouting duty.

Boxing Game Now Legal Down in Cuba

HAVANA, May 12.—That the holding of public professional boxing bouts is legal was decided by the Supreme Court. The court rendered this decision in dismissing a test complaint against Governor Bustillo of Havana Province, charging that he was guilty of an infraction of the law by personally attending the recent fight between Jess Willard and Jack Johnson.

Champion Ouimet Lands Final of Baltimore Golf

BALTIMORE, May 12.—Francis Ouimet added another trophy to the collection that decorates the interior of the Woodland Golf Club when he defeated H. Warren Corkran, Jr., Baltimore Country Club, in the final round for the Maryland cup, the chief trophy in the Baltimore Country Club's annual invitation tournament. The champion's margin was 4 up and 3 to play. In the morning Ouimet beat Reginald S. Worthington of Shawnee-on-Delaware, 2 up, in the semi-final round. E. M. Tait, also of Woodland, won the third, defeated eight.

Exeter Enters 24 in Harvard Games

Twenty-four athletes will represent Exeter Academy in the Harvard interscholastic games on Saturday. Exeter has won the meet for the past five years and are the favorites to win again this season. Exeter's entries follow:

100-yard dash—C. F. Phillips and A. D. Brewer.
220-yard dash—C. F. Phillips, A. D. Brewer and L. M. Buchsbaum.
440-yard run—G. Rawlin, L. M. Buchsbaum, C. H. Goodnough.
Half-mile run—G. Borden, T. V. McDermott and F. J. Wakem.
Mile run—J. T. Shannon, Austin E. Williams and T. D. Fox.
120-yard high hurdles—S. Potter and C. H. Mann.
220-yard hurdles—O. G. Fell and A. S. Warden.
Pole vault—S. Potter, C. J. Welsh and J. E. Clinton.
16-pound shot—R. F. Cleveland and O. G. Smith.
12-pound hammer—W. H. Bartlett and A. C. Grobert.
Running high jump—W. Anderson, J. Buffington and A. Perkins.
Running broad jump—C. H. Mann and J. W. Prentiss.

New York Boxers Are Suspended

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—Three of the New York boxers, Matty Herbert, 108-pound champion; Arthur Kaufman, middleweight champion, and Allie Mack, may lose their amateur status for demanding expense money to compete in the tournament of the Olympic Club here.

The men came on from the East with other New York boxers to take part in the Panama-Pacific tournament. Their expenses were paid by the Metropolitan Association, but when asked to compete later at the Olympic Club exhibitions they sent a letter to the trainer of the club asking for $100 expenses. The letter was signed "New York Champs."

Sam Langford to Invade Australia

MILFORD, May 12.—Sam Langford, the Boston colored heavyweight, is going to leave America because the fighting game here is "on the bum," as he puts it. Langford has a Summer training camp on the Milford-Medway road. He is going to sell out and sail for Australia.

YACHTS TO RACE THROUGH CANAL

While members of various yacht clubs have taken advantage of the Cape Cod Canal since the great waterway was opened for traffic last Summer, it is likely that the New York Yacht Club will be the first club to make a run through the canal, arrangements having been completed during the past few days for the boats of the club to go through the canal on August 8.

Commodore George F. Baker, Jr., of the New York club has announced that the boats of the club probably [illegible] will pass through the canal on the morning of August 8 and will proceed to Marblehead, where they will remain until August 12.

Commodore Baker has arranged to have all the boats that will take part in the annual run at anchor off Wings Neck, Buzzards Bay, on the evening of August 7 and early the next morning, probably about 8 o'clock, the flagship of the fleet will start through the new maritime highway.

It is believed that all the boats of the fleet will have passed through the canal to Cape Cod Bay within a few hours and that on the afternoon of August 8 the fleet will drop anchor in Marblehead Harbor.

It is planned not to have the boats stop at any point along the canal between the home port, New York, and Marblehead, and the yachts will be in squadron formation from the start to the end of the run.

Returning the boats will take their time getting back and it is likely that a number of them will run into port at Boston and other points along the coast.

Commodore Baker on his palatial steam yacht Viking went through the canal a few days ago, accompanied by Commodore J. W. Miller, vice-president of the Canal company.

Commodore Baker was greatly pleased with the new and short route and that avoids the dangerous shoals off the back of Cape Cod, and he and the other members of the yacht club are looking forward to the run through the canal with pleasurable anticipation.

Murray Captain of Harvard Freshmen

Bill Murray of Natick, Mass., was elected captain of the Harvard freshman baseball team and celebrated his new honor by leading his team to a victory over the strong Worcester Academy team, an achievement which has not been accomplished by any team since May 1912.

Murray has been playing third base on the 1918 team all season and was the logical choice for the leadership. Murray prepared for Harvard at Andover, where he captained the football team and played on both the hockey and baseball teams. Since coming to Harvard last Fall Murray has made both the freshman football and baseball teams.

Confirm Rumor of Wilding's Death

LONDON, May 12.—It is officially announced by the War Office that Lieutenant Anthony F. Wilding, the famous lawn tennis player, has been killed. There were reports to that effect yesterday, but confirmation came today. The place is not stated in the bare announcement, but it is said to have been France.

PHAIR VIEWS ON SPORTS

SOME INTERVIEWS.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 12.—Charles W. Murphy, who once was connected with the Cubs, submitted to an interview today.

"I am merely a spectator now," he said. "I have no financial interest in the club and do not care where they finish. But if Bresnahan does not land the money this year I will can him."

NEW YORK, May 12.—John D. Rockefeller, who once was connected with the oil business, submitted to an interview today.

"I am merely a spectator now," he said. "I have no financial interest in Standard Oil and do not care what happens to it. You will have to excuse me now. I have an engagement at No. 26 Broadway, where the board of directors are about to strangle another independent company."

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 12.—Tom Jones, who once was connected with the boxing game, submitted to an interview today.

"I don't care to be quoted," he said, "nor do I care to have my name mentioned in the papers. I am no longer connected with the game, except as an ordinary fight fan. I collect 50 per cent of Willard's end of the gate merely to keep up my interest in the sport. I don't want my name mentioned in the papers, but be sure that you spell it right."

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 12.—Henry Kauff, the well-known friend of Benny Kauff, submitted to an interview today on the subject of Benny Kauff.

"I don't care to talk about Benny Kauff," he said, "but I am convinced that he is the world's greatest ball player, regardless of race, color, creed or previous conditions of servitude. Here are some pictures of Benny Kauff. I hope you will not print more than half a dozen of them on the first page."

[illegible] Butler claims that he was touched for $25 in Louisville. It seems that they don't recognize the [illegible] in Louisville.

"Chinese," quoth a headliner, "play ball like Yankees." That guy must be a Jap.

THE DERBY WINNER.

The shades of night were falling fast
When from the sporting desk there passed
A word to you composing room—
A word that filled my heart with gloom.
"REGRET."

I yearned, as one with bitter thirst,
I yearned to hear that Dortch ran first,
But Dortch was false as false could be
And I could only sigh, "Ah me,
REGRET."

I do not know your pedigree,
Your color, size or ancestry,
But as I amble to my home
Your name is running through my dome!
"REGRET."

Charley Herzog never was built for a fighter. If he were he would immediately sign up for a return match with Battling Rigler before the club offering the best inducements.

Rigler and Herzog were fined $5 apiece for fighting, but if Freddie Welsh were ever tried on the same charge he would be unanimously acquitted.

WILL PROTEST ENTRY OF ROOS

The report that came out of New Haven that Bill Roos, the former Columbia man, who created such a reputation for himself as a weight man while a student at Worcester Academy, was eligible to compete in the Harvard-Yale meet, which is to be held next Saturday at New Haven, dropped like a bombshell in the Harvard camp.

The Harvard authorities have been led to believe that Roos was not going to put the shot next Saturday and when the news reached Cambridge that Manager Stackpole of the Yale track team had come out with a statement in which he stated that in the eyes of the Yale Athletic Association Roos was eligible under the Harvard and Yale agreement they thought that some one had been misquoted.

Stackpole's assertion was verified and it now appears as though Roos would compete against the Crimson. Harvard will enter a protest and the outcome will not be made known until just before the meet on Saturday.

Aside from the news regarding Roos, everything ran off smoothly at Cambridge yesterday. The athletes were all put through another day's hard training and every man on the squad is in the best possible condition.

SPRINTERS GOING WELL.

The sprint men were given a great deal of work yesterday and Eddie Teschner, Lou Foley and Barnie Nelson showed up particularly well. Although stacked against the holder of the junior national championship, Teschner is regarded by Harvard supporters as the favorite in the 220-yard dash, while many are predicting that Lou Foley, who won the furlong event in the Cornell-Harvard meet, will beat Treadway of Yale to the tape.

"Willie" Willcox is showing up better and better in the 440. Willcox has now had three weeks of training and is fit to lead the best quarter milers in the country across the line. It will not be at all surprising to those who have watched Willcox closely since the former Groton boy started real work with the track team if the quarter-mile record is broken next Saturday. Alex Biddle is also running a fast 440 and it looks good for a third, for it is very doubtful if he is capable at present to defeat Wilkie of Yale.

STAR HALF-MILERS.

Captain Capper and Bill Bingham should have everything their own way in the half mile. Both of these stars are travelling well under two minutes and if feeling fit Bingham will travel the distance close to 1.56.

Connie Southworth, who broke the two-mile record in the Cornell-Harvard meet, and W. W. Kent are expected to score well for Harvard in the two and one mile events. In Foucher, Yale has a wonderful miler, but Kent has been going well and if he continues to improve from now until Saturday at the same rate he did last week, Foucher will find the Harvard man a very worthy opponent.

The Harvard track squad will leave for New Haven tomorrow afternoon on the 1.05 train. There will be forty-seven in the party, forty-two athletes, Manager Greenough, Coaches Donovan and Powers and two rubbers.

Warren Wins His Game.

Warren, by excellent play in the New England three-cushion championship tournament at the Imperial room, defeated Amidon, 50 points to 32. This evening Felton and Gilliasie will play.

"HOW TO HAVE HEALTH AND MUSCLES LIKE MINE."
A Two-Page Feature By JESS WILLARD In Next Sunday's AMERICAN

Mrs. Coe Is Still Waiting for Husband

Mrs. Henry Clark Coe, Jr., is still waiting patiently for some word from her husband, the young Standard Oil salesman, who was recently located in Fairbanks, Alaska. "Dr. Coe, my father-in-law, is handling the situation," says Mrs. Coe. "He has reported nothing new to us here, and we are leaving every thing in his hands."

3,000 Acres to Form Biggest Sheep Field

[illegible], Wis., May 13.—A. B. French of St. Paul, who owns and operated some large stock ranches in Montana, has closed the deal for 3,000 acres of cut-over hardwood lands north of Winter, Wis. He will fence this tract and ship in 6,000 head of sheep to be pastured on it the coming Summer.

Beautify Mackay's Estate; Rumor He Is to Wed Astor Widow

ROSLYN, L. I., May 13.—For the first time in three years landscape gardening and transplanting is going on at Clarence H. Mackay's estate on Harbor Hill on a large scale.

There is a rumor that these marked activities herald the advent of a new mistress at Harbor Hill and it is reported that the engagement of Mr. Mackay to Mrs. John Jacob Astor is soon to be announced.

The rumor gained strength when a man who is well qualified to know about the matter declared that the public would soon hear of the engagement.

First Vote Standing on Sunday, May 30

How many of the contestants in the American's big race for the twenty-five DE LUXE trips to the California Expositions and the prizes of $1,250 in gold, realize how quickly Time is slipping by? The day after tomorrow will see the end of the first half of the competition. Think of it, candidates—more than half over and NOW ON THE LAST LAP.

Series "A," "B" and "C" seemed like long periods—yet before we knew it, they were over. There is no question about the speed with which time flies—THE GREAT THING IS TO MAKE THE MOST OF IT WHILE IT'S WITH US.

There have never been more luxurious trips planned by any newspaper than these and the opportunity of winning them is placed squarely up to the individual. There are no favorites—every one is on an absolute equality and every one is judged solely by the results achieved.

In the meantime, every day brings these wonderful transcontinental trips nearer, and, with Series "D" already well under way, there remain only fifty-one more days before the twenty-five real workers will meet with their reward.

Are you going to be one of the fortunate ones?

The vote standing of all candidates in the American's California Tours Contest will be printed in the Sunday American two weeks from next Sunday, May 30.

The Contest Manager hoped to be able to publish the vote standing earlier, but the magnitude of the task of counting, tabulating and checking is such that an earlier publication is utterly impossible.

LOST FAITH AND VERY SKEPTICAL

R. E. Anderson, Traveling Man, Well Known in Boston, Makes Statement.

One is not required to take Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, for weeks and months before they receive any benefit. In order that skeptical people may be convinced immediately the formula is so constructed as to give almost instant relief, thereby giving the sufferer the necessary confidence. They will then continue the use of Plant Juice until they have fully recovered their health.

To these skeptical individuals that want to be "shown," the following testimonial from Mr. R. E. Anderson, who lives at 369 Silver Street, Akron, O., will prove of interest. Mr. Anderson is a traveling salesman for a prominent firm and is well known and highly esteemed here. He said:

"Having suffered from chronic indigestion and tried so many preparations which did me no good, I became skeptical of anything really helping me. Finally I was persuaded to try Plant Juice by a friend who had been benefited by it. I find that it has done all that was claimed for it. Being on the road continually, and being compelled to eat all kinds of food, I lost weight, felt miserable and finally became a chronic dyspeptic, absolutely worn out and could not work with any spirit or ambition. I noticed almost instant improvement after beginning to use Plant Juice. I continued to improve until today I am practically physically back into my old form and have no one to thank for this recovery to health but Plant Juice, for I am now cured of my ills."

A trial of Plant Juice is all that is required to convince the most skeptical that it is the most wonderful curative of the age. It tones up and invigorates the whole body, instils new life and vigor and will make one feel like another person. Every claim made for Plant Juice is backed up by testimonials of people of standing in signed statements.

The Plant Juice man is at the Liggett's Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he daily meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy. Free samples given. —Advertisement.

Three Hundred Million Times Five Cents—for the Canadian Farmer

That Is a Present Which He Gets from Uncle Sam, GLADLY GIVEN—But—

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

You have been told of the exhibit that represents Canada in the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco.

The Canada Building and the demonstration of Canadian ability, good government and energy are marvellous.

Today we ask you to think about one of many signs which are displayed in the Canadian Building.

We copied it exactly and shall quote it just as the Canadians wrote it.

It ought to make some of the Americans think—especially those who are everlastingly disturbed, fearing that we may treat England or something English unkindly.

You know that the Panama-Pacific Exposition celebrates the opening of the Panama Canal. And you know that the people of THIS country were taxed and paid three hundred and seventy-five millions of dollars to build that canal.

The government of the United States, the army of the United States, and the people of the United States with their money, united the two oceans and rendered a service to the entire world.

Canada appreciates that service, knows what it will mean to Canada in her Northwestern regions, and this is what Canada has written for all to see in her magnificent building in San Francisco:

OFFICIAL STATEMENT BY CANADA

All the Canadian railroads are making ready for the enormous increase in Canadian grain export by the Pacific route which will be brought about by the opening of the Panama Canal.

It is estimated that in twelve years from now over three hundred million bushels of Canadian grain will be shipped yearly by this route, AT A COST OF FIVE CENTS A BUSHEL LESS THAN BY THE SHORTEST ROUTE TO EUROPEAN PORTS.

Three hundred million bushels of grain to be shipped from Northwestern Canada and five cents saved on every bushel by the Canadian farmer, thanks to the Panama Canal built by the United States.

They are welcome to the money; we are glad they are going to have it. Nothing is too good for the energetic men who are building up the continent to the north of us.

Take out your lead pencil, multiply three hundred million by five cents and you get this result: In one year the Canadian farmers' savings, thanks to the Panama Canal, will amount to one thousand five hundred million cents, or fifteen million dollars.

This profit of fifteen million dollars a year from the Panama Canal will come to the Canadian farmers of the Northwest. Perhaps a little later we shall be able to devise something that will be of equal value to the Canadian farmers of the middle part of the continent. Let us hope so.

Meanwhile note various things.

By a curious coincidence the fifteen millions that the Canadian farmers will save on Northwest grain freights alone just about represents fair interest on what it has cost US to build the canal. We put in the capital, the Canadian grain farmers draw fifteen millions in dividends.

There will also be Canadian miners who will get other dividends and Canadian lumbermen who will make vast savings on the freight on lumber. It is probably safe to say that the northwestern part of Canada alone will net yearly at least ten per cent. on the three hundred and seventy-five millions that it cost us to build the Panama Canal.

Please notice that the United States farmer who is taxed to build the canal, the United States lumberman and all other United States citizens, are gravely informed that their duty, pleasure and profit began and ENDED when they built the canal for the whole world. They are told that they must not be permitted to run their own coastwise ships through without paying tax or devise any especial profit for themselves.

It was never demanded that ALL American ships should go through without paying toll. The United States was willing in its trade across the oceans to stand on an even basis with all other nations of the world—Europe, Asia, all.

But it WAS suggested, and a law was passed accordingly, that the American COASTWISE ships trading ONLY in United States territory should be allowed free use of that canal, which is also WHOLLY IN UNITED STATES TERRITORY.

The law was made, but somebody suddenly had a violent case of conscience-stomach-ache. And to please the English and the Canadian Pacific Railroad the law was repealed.

After reading that sign which the Canadians truthfully and intelligently hung up in their exhibit in San Francisco, what do you think about all the talk of injustice to England, et cetera, that preceded the repeal of the "free tolls law"?

If the United States spends three hundred and seventy-five millions, saves fifteen millions a year for the Canadian grain farmers of the Northwest, and other millions for other Canadians, and tens and hundreds of millions for the people of the world, DON'T YOU THINK THE UNITED STATES MIGHT HAVE BEEN PERMITTED TO USE THAT CANAL, BUILT WITH ITS OWN MONEY IN ITS OWN LAND, WITHOUT CHARGE FOR THE BENEFIT OF ITS OWN CITIZENS AND SHIPPERS IN THE COASTWISE TRADE?

WHATEVER you may believe, we beg to assure you that before the United States is much older AMERICAN COASTWISE SHIPS WILL GO THROUGH THE CANAL WITHOUT PAYING TOLL, and the United States farmer and United States shipping will be allowed to use their own canal without taxation and draw dividends on their own investment.

(Editors interested in United States rights in the United States Canal are asked to reproduce that official Canadian announcement.)

They Call It "Anarchy" in Mexico, but Europe Prefers to Call It the Laws of War

Peace, Poise and Power, Plus

By ELBERT HUBBARD

If ever a man shall live who has infinite power, he will be found to be one who has infinite love.

Any person in any walk of life, who puts jealousy, hate and fear out of his life will be distinguished.

All good things shall be his.

Power will flow to him.

Power gravitates to the man who can use it, and love is the highest form of power that exists.

The way to free yourself from discord is not to take a grip on yourself and strive to be kind—not that. Just don't think about it, but lose yourself in your work.

If your intent is right your action will be also.

Hell and heaven are not localities—they are states of mind.

Once we thought work a curse;

* * *

then it came to us that it was a necessary evil, and yesterday the truth dawned upon us that it is a precious privilege.

There is more joy in useful effort than in the painstaking avoidance of it.

Creeping into the lives of men everywhere is the thought that co-operation is better than competition.

We need each other, and by giving much we will receive much.

That old maxim, "Cast thy bread upon the waters," is founded on a stern psychologic law.

Everything we give out comes back to us. Give out love and love returns.

To grasp and grab and seize is to lose.

We are reaching enlightened self-interest.

And so there is a strong setting of the social tide toward useful effort and the elimination of the parasite.

This through the knowledge that we can thrive through service, and not through exploitation.

Everywhere, schools and colleges are doing things—not merely talking about them.

The education de luxe—the education for show—will soon be consigned to limbus.

We say, "That man is the best educated who is the most useful."

* * *

And the true test of education will lie in its possessor's ability to serve.

Do not go out of your way to do good, but do good whenever it comes your way.

Men who make a business of doing good to others are apt to hate others engaged in the same occupation.

Sacrifice and self-abnegation are not needed.

Simply be filled with the thought of good, and it will radiate. You do not have to bother about it, any more than you need to trouble about your digestion.

Do not be disturbed about saving your soul.

It will certainly be saved if you make it worth saving.

Do your work. Think the good. And the evil, which is a negative condition, shall be swallowed up by the good.

Some New Ideas Dangerous to Women

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Shows Possibility of Neglecting Duties and Nullifying Usefulness by Ambition to 'Develop Best Within One' and 'Make Most of Self'

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

AMONG the many privileges which the present era accords to woman is that of "developing the best within her," to use her own favorite phraseology.

It was the generally accepted idea in olden times that a woman must keep to her limited domain of wife or spinster, dependent upon husband or relatives for home and occupation, no matter what wealth of talent in other directions cried for utterance in her soul.

The girl who utilized her talents outside of the domestic sphere was regarded as "strong minded" and masculine, if not worse; and the married woman who dared write, sing, act or recite declassed herself.

That was one extreme. We now seem to have reached the other.

There is an idea prevalent today that it is the duty of every woman to seek to "express" an indefinable something within her which shall establish her individuality.

To make "the most of herself" is every woman's ideal. It is an excellent one, but in pursuing it she needs to be very certain that her conception of "most" would not be estimated as "least" in the eyes of wisdom.

In America this idea for individuality is so prevalent that domestic obligations are frequently put aside as easily as household furniture is stored, while the wife and mother sets forth in search of "her best self."

In olden times when a woman forfeited home and its duties for a career, other wives and mothers turned their backs upon her.

But the sex is broadening in sympathy and indulgence, and its charity is covering a multitude of sins.

A woman who has divorced two or three husbands and shifted her maternal obligations upon other shoulders and purses, in order that she may be free and untrammeled in her pursuit of her ideal, meets with a great deal of consideration at the hands of her sister women today.

"She had to pass through just those experiences," they say, "in order to evolve."

"What does a husband or a child or two count in the great scheme of self-development?" says another. "A woman must do what is for her own highest good, no matter what sacrifices are made in the process."

A somewhat conservative lady spoke with regret of a friend who had devastated two homes.

"Don't think of her in that way," said another. "She is a woman of talent, and I feel she has a message to give to the world yet. She is struggling toward the light through all this experience."

The liberality of judgment is more commendable than the casting of stones.

There is an elastic tendency to this modern philosophy which enables the woman of lawless impulses to hide her adventurous propensities under its shelter.

The liberal thought of the day regarding woman is full of hope for the erring and remorseful soul; but it is, too, when carried to an extreme, full of danger for the weak and unstable, and it is an excuse for the selfish.

"The best" within a woman was never developed, save through doing with all her might the nearest duties first.

Of course, there may be a diversity of opinions regarding those duties, but one's own conscience and common sense should be the guide.

It is not a duty to sacrifice life and strength to the service of a brutal, selfish and vicious husband, who has broken every vow he took at the altar, yet insists that his wife shall live up to the letter of hers.

In such a case it is a woman's nearest duty to get as far from the man as possible, and not lay her future upon the same pyre which has consumed her past.

But the woman who allows her ambition and her vanity to lead her to sacrifice a good husband's happiness merely because she feels she can shine on the heights of art with a more effulgent light alone or with another man, violates a principle which disturbs the harmony of society. When she relinquishes her children for any aim or ambition, however exalted, no matter what her attainments may be, she has but repeated Esau's bargain of old.

"Look what she has achieved!" was said of one woman who had acquired fame and gold. "She had to fling away all trammels and ties in order to become just what she is."

But on a good man's life, and on the lives of innocent children, rested a shadow which, in some lights, seemed to be a stain.

There was a man who succeeded in an aim—a petty ambition from our standpoint, but no smaller than the founding of an empire or the winning of immortal fame must seem in God's eyes.

This man wanted the road to the nearest village, three miles distant, to run through his property, because it would bring him an amount of money which seemed like a fortune in his small eyes. The man's property was all hills and valleys.

The Selectmen planned to have the road go around these hills, over level meadows. But the man was strong willed, persistent, scheming. He succeeded and glories in his success.

That was years ago. Today thousands of horses become knee-sprung and lame and spavined, scores of vehicles break down, wheelmen meet with accidents, and the nerves of Summer residents and tourists become unstrung because of these hills and valleys, which must be traversed to reach town, the trolleys or the train.

Was his success worth to the man the price humanity has to pay for it?

It is our privilege to give up personal comfort and personal happiness, if we choose to do so, in order to accomplish a certain purpose.

There is no success in any line of art which can repay a woman for the knowledge that her child suffers at the mention of her name.

Let us be lenient in our judgment of such women, but let us not put them upon a pinnacle as beings to be worshipped and emulated.

In-Shoots

The politician with a good record always seems to have the hardest time landing an office.

When you can get the statesman to rush into print and explain things you have him on the run.

The fellow who can separate his real troubles from imaginary evils generally has the best time through life.

There is seldom failure in the marriage that lands a man in the home of an energetic boardinghouse keeper.
